Where... everyone knows how to have a good time!

Football games, dances, driving around, and partying were things that we thought would never come to an end. But now as we look back at our past memories with all of our friends we realize now how much we will miss the things that we have all taken for granted in life. It seems like just yesterday everyone was so nervous about our first day of being a freshman, and finally being in high school. Now we are all moving in different directions with our lives. Some are going to college or a technical school, and some are heading out into the work force. No matter what direction you choose, nothing can ever replace the exciting and unforgettable high school years. But make sure that you have lived your years at Batesville High School to the fullest because one thing you can never replace in life is your memories. Some of these memories will never be forgotten...

Powder Puff practice. Junior Year. The swamp. The effort. The mud. Good times...Michelle Gibson... One night I got a bunch of people together in my parents van. We went over to Ted Dickman's house while he was in Tennessee. We then removed the tires from his truck and put them on top of his roof. He wasn't too happy but it was a pretty good prank...Pugs Nobbe... We were doing a probability and statistics experiment during flex in Mr. Walter's vacant room, and all of a sudden Mr. Seright walked in and ruined the fun, dubbing us the "Pete Rose Fan Club." Then Mr. Schuck was disappointed and he grounded us...Korey Weber, Eli Sutterding, Elizabeth Rosebrough, Leslie Martacke, Tony Tedesco, & Annie Robertson... When I bet Justin Bessler he couldn't stay up for 82 straight hours. He made it for 74 1/2 hours until he started hallucinating, and he thought I was a lizard and passed out. It was hilarious...Ben Cornett... Eric Forthofer created a hot tub out of the bed of his pickup truck. A bunch of us got together and rode in the hot tub truck through town and the backroads. It was January so it was freezing outside but it was still a good time!...Tommy Burns

Leslie Mayes

Some people do it for the money and some people do it for the fame. But this is not why senior, Leslie Mayes, chose to write books. She wrote because she loved them.

"I don't care about the money because money destroys the soul and if you let money rule what you write, you might as well not write," said Mayes.

Mayes started writing her first novel her sophomore year, and it turned into a hobby. She completed her first book called Dusk in Levleron, the beginning of her junior year.

"I didn't really think it would turn into anything big because I started it out of boredom. My second book is already longer than the first," said Mayes.

If you liked dragons, wizards, and battles, this book was for you. Mayes spent the last part of her senior year working on the sequel to it, which she expected to put out around the end of school the year. Her book could be found on the Internet, at the Bookshelf uptown, and at the library.

Although Mayes was unsure what the future held for her, she knew writing would undoubtedly stay in her life whether she did it as a job or hobby. She debated between being a screenwriter or becoming involved in Russian studies as a career.

Writing fiction stories came naturally to Mayes, which may have been one of the many reasons she was voted as most creative for senior personalities. There is no doubt Mayes will be successful in whatever she does.

WHERE... seniors add a little extra

E.J. Koors

You may have seen him in a parade or possibly at a funeral giving the 21-gun salute.

As a member of the "Sons of American Legions," senior E.J. Koors was chosen to be a member of the American Legion Color guard Post 271.

Koors, along with military veterans, marched at parades and fired their guns at the gravesites of people who once served in the military. Those funerals consisted of shooting guns, folding the flag, and playing taps. It was E.J.'s duty to fire 3 shots simultaneously with six other members at these funerals which signified the traditional 21-gun salute.

He also attended an annual ceremony called the Four Chaplains Service where it was his duty to display the American flag.

When asked how he felt about being a member of this prestigious group, E.J. responded, "Being a proud member of the American Legion Post 271 has given me a newfound respect for the men and woman who have served honorably in our military."

Behind every ambition is effort...
Behind every effort is someone who's willing to try.*

Phil Call

Phil Call could not have described his passion for music any better, "I love music, simple as that," said Call.

Call, who had been an avid musician since he was 6, may be the next famous composer to join the ranks of Mozart or Beethoven. Call spent his senior year composing a symphony, which he hoped he would one day conduct in front of an audience. He also created several piano pieces and wrote his own songs.

Outside of the high school band, Call was involved with three other local bands including the Eureka Band, The Fritz Turner Band, and Papas Cookin. These bands were known to play at The Eagles, The Waters, and hospitals, as well as numerous concerts at community functions. "Essentially it's a bunch of old men who get together and have lots of fun," said Call.

Call's specialty was the tenor saxophone, but his talent didn't stop there. Call played all saxophones, the clarinet, the piano, the guitar, and the ukulele. Clearly, this musical genius had a special gift which he shared with all types of audiences.

Kelley Goldsmith

Ever since she was 10 years old, horses were an interest of Kelley Goldsmith. Her first experience with horses was at horse camp where she went just for a fun time. This fun time turned her in the direction of a life long passion.

After Kelley returned from camp, she signed up for riding lessons. This gave her an opportunity to have more experiences with horses, and taught her how to ride correctly. After lessons, Kelley got her own horse, "Flash" who was shown at many 4-H fairs and open shows.

"My favorite thing in dealing with horses is meeting new people. I enjoy hanging out with all the people I have already met, and I especially enjoy the traveling," said Kelley.

Kelley has traveled to Oklahoma and Florida several times for shows. At these shows, she has won first place at Pinto World and won the English Equation at the State Farm.

Kelley planned to attend Purdue University, majoring in Animal Science. She also hoped to become a part of the Purdue Riding Team. After college, Kelley planned to follow her dreams to Florida where she could train Quarter Horses for a living.

Many tears were shed by the seniors as their 12 years of hard work, dedication, and effort came to an end on May 29, 2004. Shana Meadows, Matt Reichers, Nate Tuttle, and Walt Enneking (students enrolled in the service) started off the ceremony by leading the Pledge of Allegiance. It was followed by performances from Batesville Singers, speeches from the Valedictorian and Salutatorian, Katie Schumacher and Bud Grote, and of course, the distribution of hard-earned diplomas. The students chose Coral for their class color, Rose for their class flower, and a quote by Ralph Waldo Emerson for their class motto. "Do not go where the path may lead, go instead where there is no path and leave a trail." This quote is very appropriate for the class of 2004 because there are so many bright and talented students that will go far in life. Graduation was a very emotional time for the seniors and their friends, but it was not a goodbye, only a farewell until they see each other again.

Batesville High School....a place where everybody knows your name. Everybody knew everything about everyone else, whether we liked it or not. What happened to you on the weekend while you were having fun was sure to be around the school before you even stepped foot into it on Monday morning. We could say familiar names such as Pugs, Bud, Beez, Klyve, Dice, Schluter, Weigs, Beans, Zeek (and the list goes on) and everyone knew exactly who you were talking about. Where else could you walk down the hallway, or drive down the road, and you knew everybody you passed? ## Where... academics Everybody Strives to Succeed

Throughout a high school career students go through many difficult classes, annoying teachers, and never-ending tests. Here at BHS the curriculum was difficult and that gave reasons for students to strive hard to succeed in school so they would be prepared for what was coming next in their lives.

Walking through the hallways during fourth block there was a murmur of teachers talking. Every once in a while you would hear laughter coming from Mr. Zimmerman's room, or see people staring into space while watching one of Mr. Seright's infamous film strips. Or maybe you smelled burnt chocolate coming from the foods room. This was the everyday academic life at BHS.

Even though there were some teachers that you liked better than others, all of them made an impact on your life whether or not you were willing to believe it. They were the people that were preparing you to go on to the next thing whether it be college, the military, or perhaps a job. As a student you might not have noticed it, or even denied it, but everyone was striving to succeed. Even if your inspiration was to get away from the small town atmosphere, that is what made you strive to do well. Just remember that when you leave Batesville, that you will never again be in a small school where everyone knows your name, and where everyone strives to succeed.

Where... Everybody Gets A Break

Field trips were always an exhilarating experience. It seemed that once in high school there were more freedoms on the little outings our school allowed our teachers to take the students on. With all the independence given, it always seemed to make the whole trip worthwhile.

Emily Peters and Megan Dickman, juniors, remembered their field trip with the art history class to the Indianapolis Museum of Art.

"The best part of the art history field trip was watching Megan Dickman touch a piece of burnt wood on a wall and then a security guard followed her for like 45 minutes," said Peters.

On The German trip, German club members and German IV students went to the Hofbrauhaus to enjoy an evening of fine authentic German Cuisine. Mr. Koors said the most memorable part of the field trip was making the students perform in front of everyone. German club member and German III student Elaine Rennekamp says her favorite part of the trip was getting to dance and sing at the Hofbrauhaus.

"It was so hilarious that I was laughing so hard," stated Rennekamp.

Another field trip art teacher Mrs. McCabe took her ceramics classes on was to Annie's Mud Pie Shop in Cincinnati, Ohio. At the shop, students went through a workshop and learned the proper ways to throw a pot.

"I think that it is a good trip because there are enough wheels for everybody and it allows the students to actually work with a working artist," say Mrs. McCabe.

Another new and fun field trip that was taken was by the senior ACP english class to Wal-Mart. Mrs. Grimsley's class studied the wal-mart wars, where some communities fought to keep wal-mart out. The students went around and asked random consumers and small business owners in Greensburg about how they felt when wal-mart came and how it affected their business.

"It was nice to see how the small business owners felt about wal-mart. We always think of wal-mart as being nothing but good. I've never actually thought that some communities fought to keep it out. I never really looked at it in that aspect," said Katie Schumacher, senior.

Field trips were always an exciting change in the daily routine that students looked forward to. They will always be an activity that many will remember forever.

Where... Science Turns Into Fun

Fun, fun, and Sci-Fest! Sci-Fest was an event Batesville High School organized every year for the last cycle science students. The purpose of Sci-Fest was to get the younger primary school kids a chance to learn science concepts in an interesting and fun way. BHS students acted as tour guides and took the Batesville Primary students on a tour of other Batesville High School students' experiment booths and stands.

"Sci-Fest was a lot of fun. I think the kids really enjoyed it, and it was nice to sit outside all day," said junior Leslie Kase.

Many other BHS students felt the same way, and with Mr. Zimmerman in charge of Sci-Fest, how could anybody have a bad time?

Not only were the BHS students teaching the Batesville Primary students about science and how their experiments worked, there were also tours. The tour guides took the BPS kids around to the different stands, and then took the kids to the infamous Wetland Habitat and showed the Batesville Primary students how the Wetland Habitat filters out pollution in the environment. Junior Megan Dickman had the pleasure of being a tour guide.

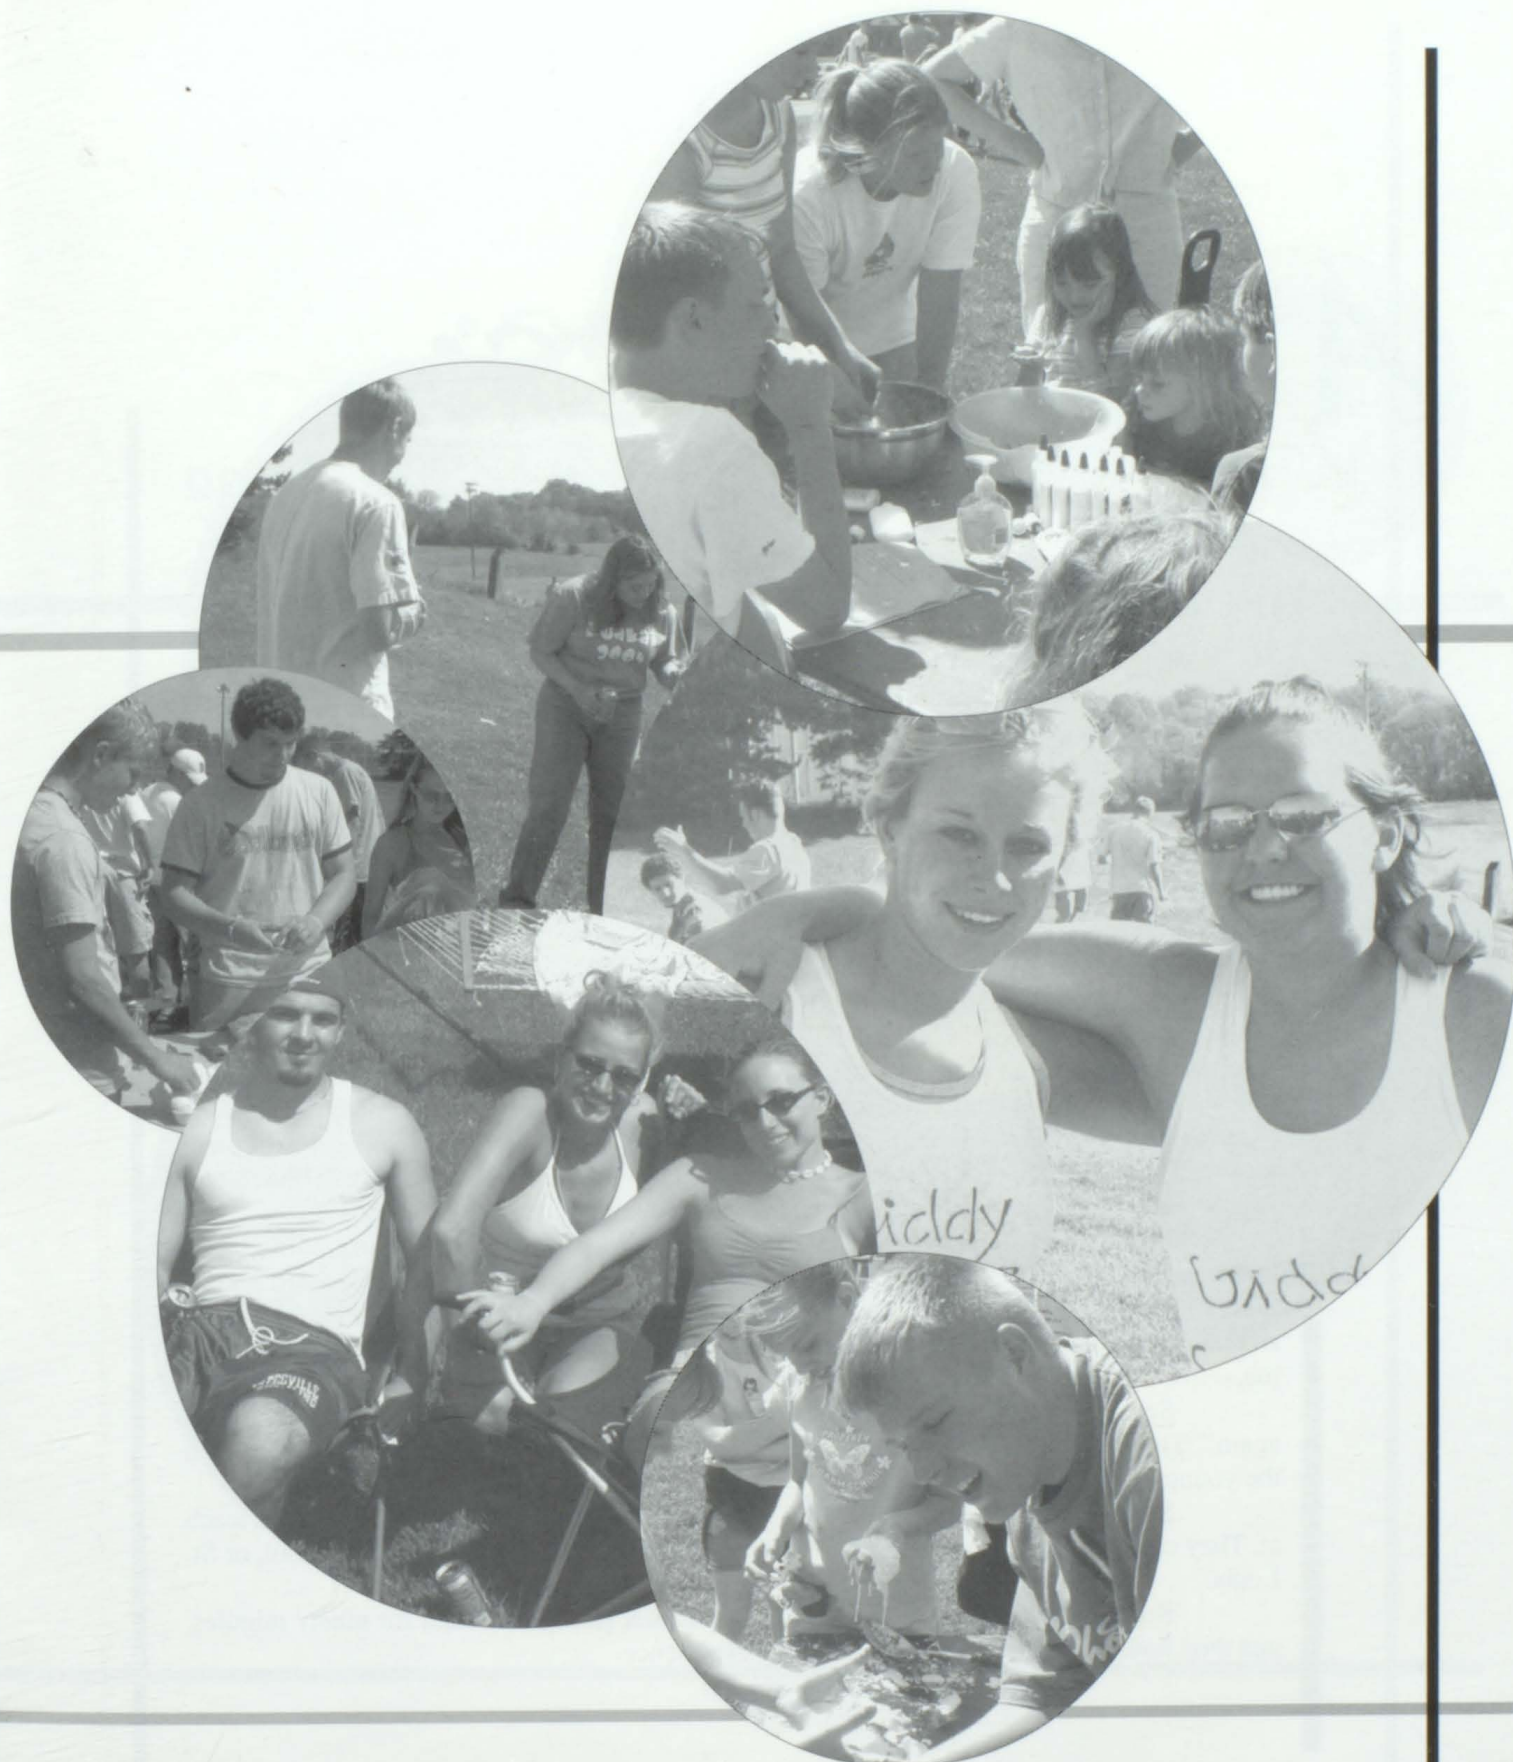

"The best thing about being a tour guide for Sci-Fest was I didn't have to do a project, I got to walk around in the sun all day, and I didn't have to deal with school at all."

For the ones who weren't a tour guide, they had to teach the Batesville Primary students about something that associated to what they had learned. Some examples of experiments was a pool of water with different items that sank or float. The younger students had to guess whether the item would sink or float before the high school student put it in the water. Another experiment was watching an egg go through a glass bottle. A piece of paper was lit and then put under the bottle to heat it. The egg then passed through the neck part. Sophomore Hilary Maple had a stand on block and tackle.

"I really enjoyed having a stand because then I didn't have to be a tour guide, I just sat there and the kids came to me, it was good time."

Sci-Fest was truly a great day in the sun. Seniors, juniors, sophomores, and freshmen alike pulled together to make Sci-Fest an awesome time for Batesville High School Students and Batesville Primary School Students. No matter if one was a tour guide or a teacher, everybody had a good time at Sci-Fest 2004!

Where...Students Get Ahead In the Game

Many students looked forward to becoming upperclassmen. There were many advantages to being a junior or senior. One of those advantages was being able to take mentorship or cadet teaching.

"I couldn't wait to become a junior so that I could finally fulfill my lifelong dream of mentoring at the Hillenbrand airport," said Brett Weigel, senior.

Mentorship was a program designed to give students the opportunity to experience a job they were interested in, and in return allowing them to decide if it was a career they wanted to pursue after graduation. Students had to follow certain guidelines and dress codes according to the business where they mentored. They were required to fill out weekly journals and had to fill out a time sheet everyday to make sure they were actually showing up at their business.

"Mentoring at a doctor's office helped me to decide that I definitely want to go into nursing after high school," said Lisa Feller, senior.

Students could mentor at any business in and around the Batesville area where they were not employed or where it was run by a family member. Some of the most popular locations were the YMCA, Margaret Mary Community Hospital, and Hillenbrand Industries, but there were many more places where students went. Some of these places included the Hillenbrand Airport, area restaurants, preschools, hair salons, and law offices.

Junior Cathy Ramsey said, "I really enjoy going to mentorship at the hospital, because I get to see some really neat stuff."

Cadet teaching was also another popular class that many upperclassmen took. It was an elective course available to seniors that gave them the opportunity to experience a teaching job.

Senior, Megan Hertel said, "Cadet teaching was really fun. I get to be in gym class again!" The students actually got to participate in teaching the class, and got to interact with the younger students one on one.

Students who took cadet teaching signed up for the school they wanted to cadet teach at. They could cadet teach at the Middle School, Intermediate School, Primary School, or St. Louis.

Both classes were a lot of fun. They both beat sitting in a class for ninety minutes, and they both gave you invaluable hands-on experience.

Counterclockwise from top: Elizabeth Rosebrough, senior, gives a student their addition math cards Justin Bessler, senior, sits in an airplane at the Hillenbrand Airport. Where...Students Get Ahead In the Game Earning college credits in high school puts many students ahead in the game of life, which is precisely why students chose to attend the Southeastern Career Center (SCC). Nearly 800 students from local schools were enrolled at the Career Center for the school year. Out of those 800 students, 51 were from Batesville. Students attended their "home" school during half of the day and SCC during the other half.

High school students who attended the SCC received such benefits as hands on experience, college credits, internships, and job preparation.

Blake Krieger, senior, said "I liked going to SCC because it got me out of the classroom and into the workshop. I actually got real experience with what I want to be doing for the rest of my life, instead of sitting in class learning things I will never use."

The Southeastern Career Center provided students with technical skills integrated with academic knowledge while promoting work ethics, citizenship, and self-esteem to prepare them for careers in business and industry. In addition, it provided a foundation for post secondary education and advanced technical training.

SCC offered a variety of courses and education fields. One-year programs include digital media, computer repair, Cisco networking, and medical careers. Auto collision tech, diesel mechanics tech, business technology, cosmetology, culinary arts, law enforcement, and building trades are several of the two-year programs offered at SCC.

While attending the career center, students were able to create many unforgettable memories.

"At our project house, Steven Stirn's ladder fell from beneath him and he was dangling from the roof," said senior Marcus Bedel.

Steven Stirn, senior, also was able to recall a favorite memory. "Winning state for masonry and going to Kansas City for nationals was unforgettable," said Stirn.

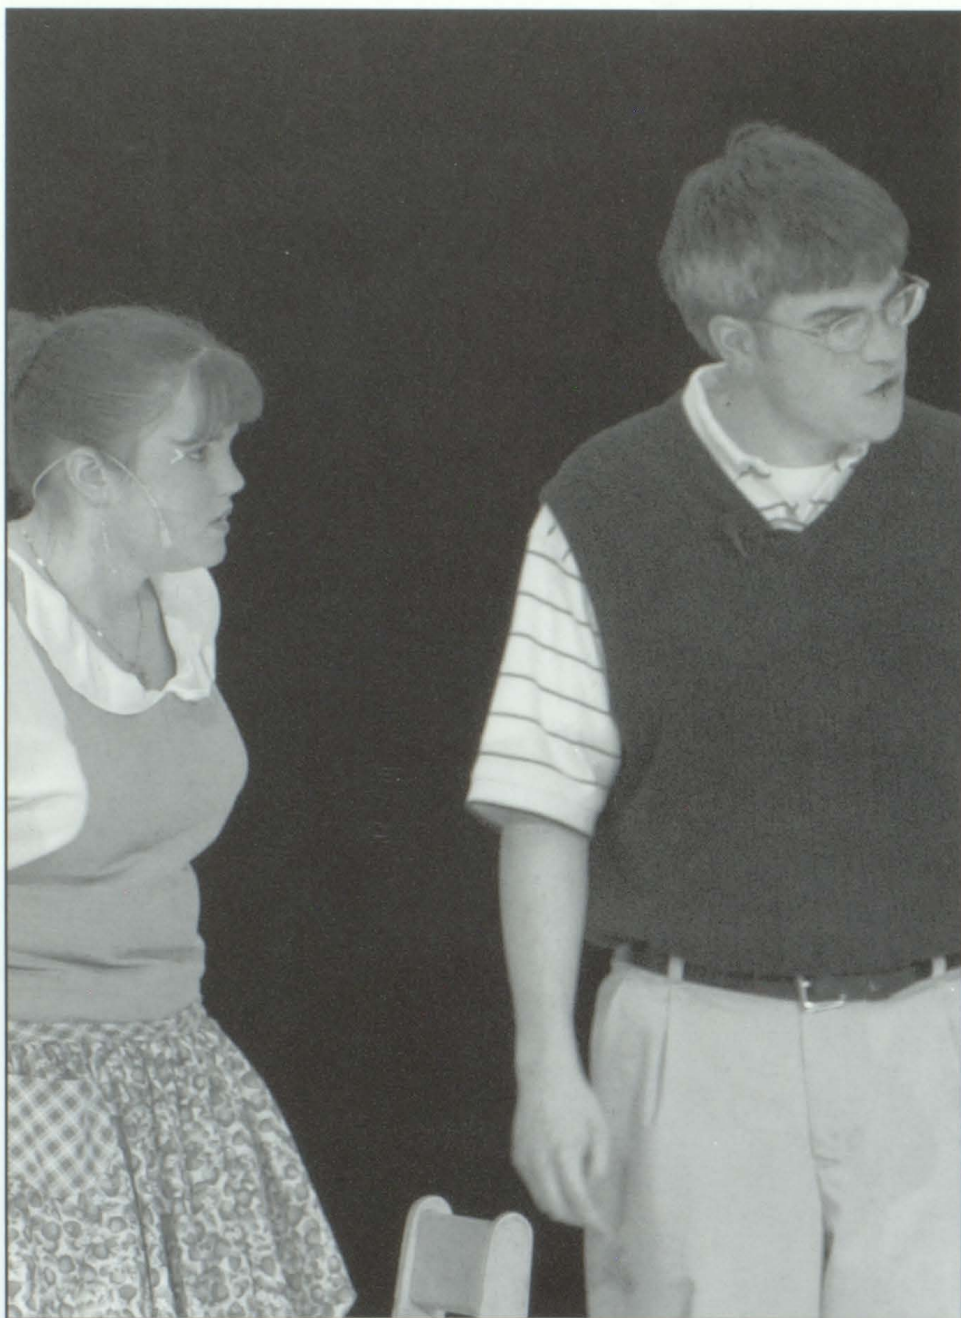

Students chose to attend SCC for a number of reasons. Whatever the reason was, these 51 students were ahead of the game.

Where... everybody's glad you came

It goes without saying that clubs and sports were a vital part of student life at Batesville High School. Being involved in clubs or other school-related activities gave students the opportunity to be a part of something big, a chance to really make a difference. By getting together with their classmates to work towards a common goal, students developed great leadership skills, which will definitely be beneficial to have in the future.

Clubs were a way of life for some. They were a way for students who weren't into sports or who didn't always have something going on, to stay active. It gave them a chance to participate in something they could enjoy or something that they were good at.

The best part of clubs was that everyone was welcome to join. The only requirements most clubs at BHS had were that you kept an open mind and had fun! Club members made several noteworthy contributions to our school. Student Council helped with the blood drive; FCCLA helped with the pie auction; Band and dance members entertained us with their half time shows and pep rallies. Musicals and plays were brought to us by the Drama Club.

High school was all about meeting and making new friends and adding diversity to your life. Clubs gave students an opportunity to take part in a wide variety of worthwhile activities and to get involved in the community, something that is vital for a small town like Batesville's success. Being active in clubs taught us how to work with each other and how to react to a situation. So useful are these skills that they are going to be even more important in life than some of those that are drilled into us during school. Clubs were a great way for students to get out there and make the most out of their high school career.

Contrary to popular belief, it wasn't a requirement to be a farmer to be active in FFA. Even though the club was focused on agriculture, it was also about helping students to develop good leadership skills and to learn how to work together to achieve their goals.

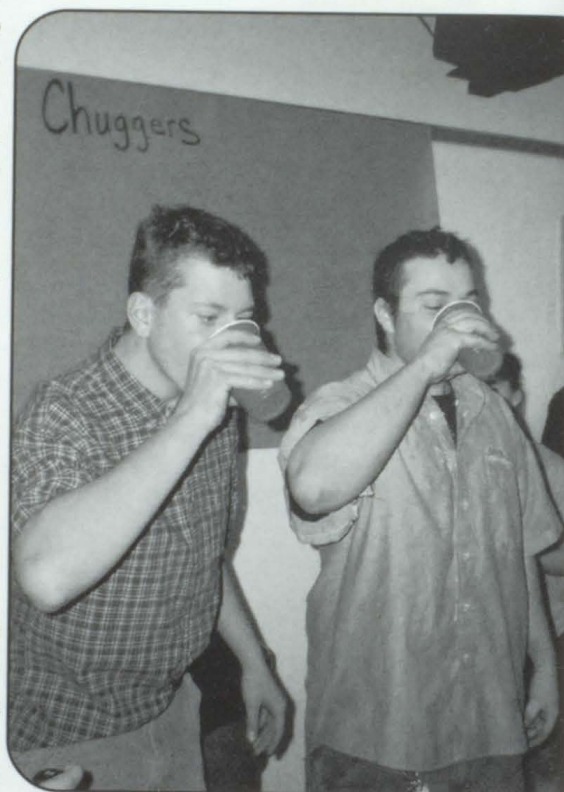

"FFA used to stand for Future Farmers of America, however, it doesn't anymore because people used to think they had to be a farmer to join, and you really don't," said senior Elizabeth Werner, Chapter President.

Members of FFA were always welcoming others to join. They met together regularly and they went on several field trips together. Members of the FFA took part in several agricultural projects. Crop, horse, livestock, and soil judging were just a few of them.

They also had their FFA Fun Day, which was its second year. It became a growing success with the help of Dominique Jobst, senior, and Elizabeth Werner. Geared towards younger children, the event featured a petting zoo, face painting, pony rides, and many other games.

"Since the creation of FFA Fun Day, it has rapidly become a success. I am impressed with the growing participation not only with FFA, but also with the community as a whole," said Dominique Jobst, Chapter Secretary.

Another big day was for Mother's Day. Students from the Primary School came over and learned about flowers growing in the FFA greenhouse. Then the children got to plant a flower for their mom.

Members of FFA and others at BHS showed their school spirit while Mayor Rick Fledderman proclaimed National FFA week. Seniors Dominique Jobst, Adam Nobbe, Stephanie Narwold, and Elizabeth Werner were present for the event.

The FFA members also went to the Farm Machinery Show in Louisville, Kentucky.

"This was my first year going and I was very impressed with the number of schools that were present. I also can't believe how easy it is to get lost," said Julie Schantz, freshman.

Most members believed the most impressive exhibit was the Ford area.

FFA participated and helped create many exciting events. Their motto proved their drive, dedication, and purpose: "doing to learn, learning to live, and living to serve."

setting a good example

While seniors proudly walked around the hallways wearing black t-shirts with the slogan "The Show Stops Here," one must consider where the "show" started. At the heart of student activities lied the diligent core of student council members. Their service to the student body included dances, pep rallies, and miscellaneous festivities giving students an exciting high school experience outside of the monotonous school structure. The student council also felt the need to make a difference in the community and around the school. In their quest to make a meaningful impression, they raised money for the Smile Train, Mr. Cochran's scholarship fund, and helped organize the Hoxworth Blood Drive. One of the fundamental reasons for student council was to deal with school issues. Some topics of concern and debate included senior privileges and the infamous breathalizers at school dances.

With two new student council advisors, Mrs. Berkemeier and Miss Hedrick, both the students and advisors adapted to the new leadership. While students informed the advisors on the traditions of previous student councils, the advisors held new visions for the student council mission. As seniors and the entire student body paraded around the school for the final time, they could thank the student council for a great "show". Encore!

"We try to make school events exciting for everyone since school can be boring sometimes. We give students something to look forward to!"

taking a stand

As teenagers, we all felt the burdens of peer pressure. Likewise, we all dealt with it in different ways. The students involved in Students Against Destructive Decisions (SADD) handled the pressure by leaning on each other, and reaching out to help their fellow students. Formerly, the club was called Students Against Drunk Driving, but due to new and increased pressures, the name was changed to be more generalized. SADD members took a stand for their personal well-being and beliefs.

This year, the club welcomed new sponsor Mr. Aaron Chester. Despite the change in leadership, SADD continued to meet, and even began a couple new projects. SADD's ultimate goal was to promote better decision-making. Perhaps you remember Grim Reaper Day, where students were "killed" to emphasize the dangers of driving under the influence. All SADD activities were designed to raise awareness.

"We had to connect ourselves with other school activities, such as prom and Red Ribbon Week," said Amanda Flodder., junior

Members of SADD met once a month to plan upcoming events, and to discuss ways to promote better judgment.

Those involved noticed the effectiveness of the SADD program. In the end, SADD members relied on each other for support for their values.

"SADD knows there is a ton of peer pressure, but there is a group of us who try to make better decisions. You are not alone."

The words "academic team" conjure up thoughts of brainiacs with calculators and pocket protectors. Contrary to popular belief, it is not just a club for 'A' students but a chance for students to meet new people, compete against other schools, and learn new things they can carry with them for a lifetime.

This year the team was broken into six different groups, each being experts on a single subject. Phil Call, senior, explained how the meets worked.

"We competed against five other teams around the area. At the end, they added up the total points, and whoever had the most points won."

The team received first place in the EIAC conference. While your views on Academic Team may not be entirely accurate, the image of good students is correct. The BHS students who participated in Academic Team expanded their knowledge and list of achievements.

dancing your heart out

“ I don’t think that the dance team gets nearly as much credit as they deserve for all of the practice and hard work they put in. ”

What was it that made the Batesville High school dance team so different this year? It all started over the summer at the strenuous IU dance camp. At the beginning of the camp, the new members of the team were fearful, partly because of not knowing what to expect and partly because the camp seemed to be more for peppy cheerleaders than dancers. But they stuck it out, gave it their best, and won many ribbons. Not only did the team come home better dancers, but they came home with some incredibly sore muscles.

“I had never been so exhausted and sore before in my whole life,” said Libby Haakinson, freshman.

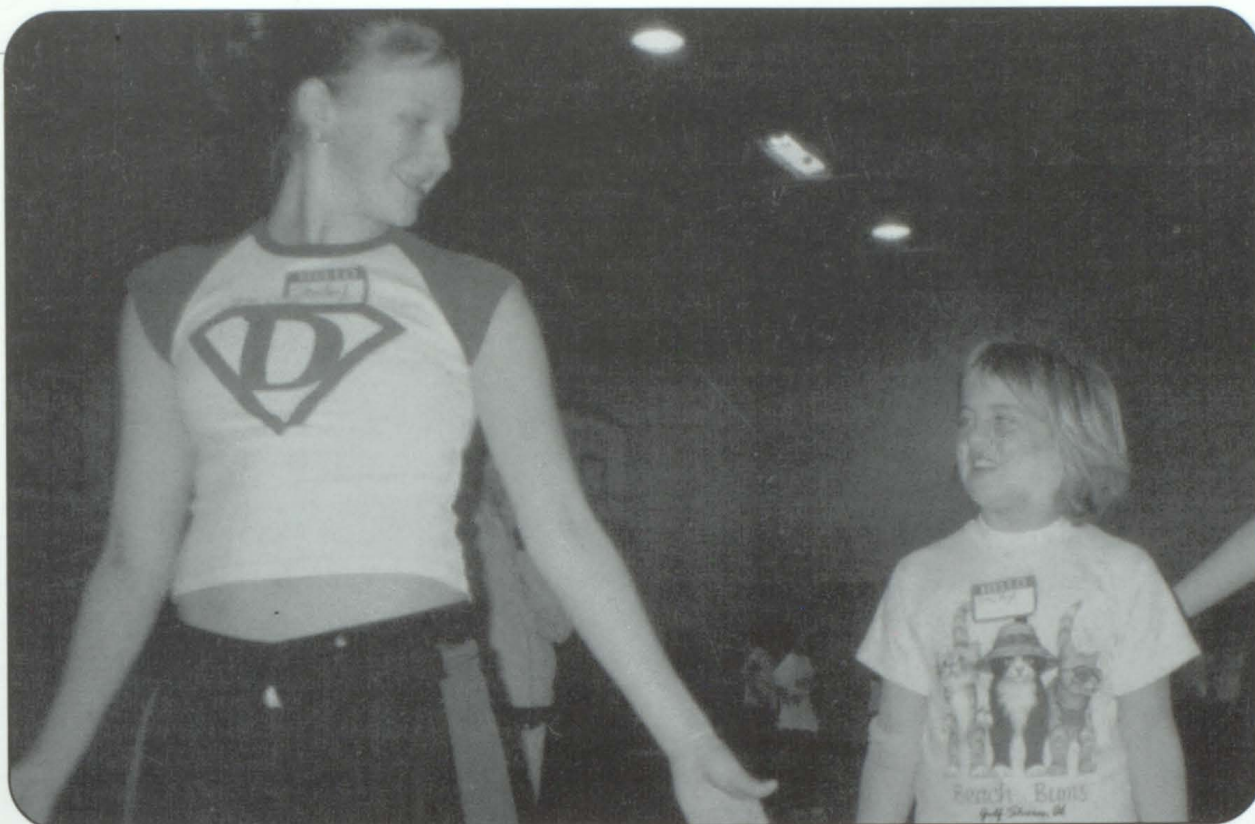

Everyone on the team agreed that camp was a positive experience and a step in the right direction for the team as a whole.

What really brought the team together was the annual dance team bonding sleepover.

"Libby Haakinson, Emma Beiser, Laura Vosahlik and I all slept in one bed together and freaked ourselves out with scary stories. It was great. Everyone needs a sleepover like that once in a while no matter how old you are!" said Courtney Meyer, freshman.

One of the highlights of the season was when the team performed a dance in memory of their beloved teacher, Mr. Cochran. The dance was choreographed by Allie Korosi, junior, and each team member wore a shirt with a different letter on it that spelled out "Mr. Cochran" on one side and "Aww Shoot" on the other.

"I put a lot of effort into this dance. I wanted it to be really special. It made me feel so good when the crowd stood up in appreciation for Mr. Cochran at the end of the dance when they saw the letters come together to spell his name," said Korosi.

adding a little culture

“My favorite memory from German Club this year was going to the Haufbrau Haus. The food was awesome!”

Abby Siefert, Junior

Students involved in the German Club got together every other week to enjoy lunch together. Their meetings weren't like classes or boring study groups. They went to have a good time and just hang out with other students involved in German classes. The gang went to the Haufbrau Haus, in Newport, along with the fourth year German students. They also celebrated “Fashing”, or Mardi Gras together with lots of music and a buffet of foreign foods.

In case anyone missed the Homecoming Parade, the German Club had their own float this year. Club members met together with their sponsor, Mr... or Herr Koors, and built their float. It was decked out with German Flags and posters.

On April 26, 2004, members of the German Club went to the University of Cincinnati (UC) to compete against other students from schools around the state. All of the students who participated in the competition worked really hard to show off their German speaking talents and they had a lot of fun doing it. This was the first year that Batesville High School's division of German Club was invited to attend.

Anyone who wanted to add a little culture to their high school memories was encouraged to join German Club. They went on a lot of interesting field trips and made learning a new language fun!

Alison Wernke and Elaine Rennekamp, juniors, joined Herr Koors for lunch at the haufbrau house.

Every year the Spanish Club had several students who wanted to get involved in the Spanish culture. Mrs. Seright and Mrs. Lake, the two leaders in charge of the club, were always looking for anybody to join. One of the main activities involved in the Spanish club was that they supported a student in Guatemala. This was a big thing because they did this all year long. They tried to save any materials and put in spare change in a bucket to help the less fortunate around the world. Some of the other things they did was caroling at the Waters, had fiesta's and they even met with other Spanish clubs in the state. In March the Spanish club, along with regular Spanish classes, was responsible for Fiesta Hispania. This was held in the cafeteria and anybody in the community was invited. Face painting, food, dancing, Spanish talking, and fun by all was held.

“I love going to the plays. I guess I’m just amazed that people can actually get on stage and do that stuff!”

Mrs. Donna Hoeing

This year drama presented two productions for all to enjoy. Those two productions consisted of a play in the fall and a musical in the spring, both with direction and guidance from Mrs. Lisa Barnett and Mr. Leon Enneking.

This past fall, drama students enthusiastically presented The Pink Panther. This detective story was a great way for students to show their acting skills. The evil Dr. Dreyfus, played by John Moton, escaped from the insane asylum to kill the inspector and get his revenge. The inspector, played by Charlie Lang, took the place of Dr. Dreyfus who was the former inspector before going insane. The Pink Panthers made the production possible by changing sets and pointing out clues to the inspector.

“Since there were no cuts, everyone had a chance to be on stage and develop their character,” says Brittany Mitchell, senior.

In the spring, drama students presented the fun and exciting musical Footloose. It was about a teenage boy, Ren, who moved from Chicago to a small town in Iowa. This town was so conservative that dancing within the town limits was against the law. Ren made many new friends and they worked together to get the town council to allow the senior class to have a prom. Ren, the main character, was played by Charlie Lang. Some other leading characters included Kendra Westerfeld, as Ren's mom, John Moton, as the Reverend, Elizabeth Rosebrough, as the Reverend's daughter Ariel, and Alicia Siefert, Rachel Meyer, and Emily Flaspohler as Ariel's friends.

The drama club presented possibly one of their best presentations ever with Footloose. Although many talented seniors will be gone next year, the drama club plans to continue to put on many exciting plays and musicals.

By participating in National Honors Society, students showed their way of caring for the community while also keeping grades at an A average. Grades were checked all throughout the year to make sure that each member was maintaining their 94.5% average.

Along with keeping an 'A' average, each member was required to complete ten hours of volunteer service to the community and attend monthly meetings. If members did not complete ten hours of service by May 1, they would either get kicked off, if they were a junior, or they would not graduate with NHS honors, if they were a senior.

"NHS helps teach students to be responsible and give back to the community," says Ms Rose Wilde, head of NHS.

The members of NHS donated their time and money to the Riley Children's Hospital. Members collected money from students during flex to donate to the hospital. With help from our giving, students of Batesville High School and NHS raised a total of $1215 to give to the hospital, an increase of $515 more than last year.

"I think NHS is a really good opportunity for students to get involved in the community and help out for a good cause," said Melissa Nobbe, senior.

When people asked Mr. Lemen, Key Club sponsor, what Key Club was, he would often tell them that the club just made keys. However, Key Club was a lot more than that. The Key Club was basically a youth branch of the Batesville Kiwanis. With 30 members, the main focus of the club was to improve the community. They referred to themselves as the “do-gooders.” One project the students undertook this year was to raise money for UNICEF. The members went trick-or-treating and collected over $70. Collecting canned goods for the local food pantry, working with the Kiwanis club’s projects, helping with Habitat for Humanity, soup-kitchens, and other local, national, and international fund raising drives, were other activities they gladly took part in. Their biggest project of the year was helping the Kiwanis at the Applefest.

Every Friday, Key Clubbers continued their tradition of selling donuts and hot chocolate to their many loyal customers.

“We are the donut leaders,” said Mr. Lemen.

The Key Club participated in many activities dealing with our community. Helping the people of Batesville was a main concern to all of them.

“ I love being a part of FCCLA, you get to have fun while doing things to help other people. ”

Pampered Chef parties, cook books, and kitchen tools were some of the many things FCCLA sold as fundraisers. The money from their fundraisers went towards Mr. Cochran's Scholarship Fund. The scholarship went to someone who was pursuing the education field after high school. It was a great success and the highest bidding pie went for $200. By the end of the year the Cochran scholarship ended up raising around $4,000. The recipient of this scholarship went to senior Andrea Back.

Many wonder what FCCLA stood for. It stood for Family Career and Community Leaders of America. To join it only cost ten dollars and any student could join any time throughout the school year. Miss Ziegler was the adviser for FCCLA and all of the meetings. The annual lock-in was held in her room. The president of FCCLA was Katie Hartman, junior.

“I have enjoyed FCCLA this year. I am happy that I am president because I am the type of person who likes to take charge,” said Hartman.

"The lock-in was a lot of fun. Too bad it had to end early for me," said Abbie Nobbe, junior.

FCCLA also contributed to organizations outside of school. They held a food drive for the Batesville Food Pantry. Many students offered their generosity and helped to make the lives of those less fortunate a little brighter.

“Band camp is a lot of work and very draining, but it’s still a lot of fun.”

While most students were sleeping in till 10:00 a.m., going out with their friends, and enjoying a carefree summer, members of band were enduring a strenuous band camp. Their day started off at 6:00 am and from there it was almost non-stop marching until night time. After that, the close group then found time to have fun with their friends.

Brittany Mitchell said, “Band camp is a lot of work and very draining, but it’s still a lot of fun.”

Once school started the band marched at the football games and played in parades. The band achieved a triumphant year, earning first place in the Columbus North Competition and second at district. Soon basketball season arrived and they split in half and became the Blue Band and the White Band. At all of the home games, one of the bands would perform.

The band was once again led by Mr. Doug Norton. They performed a spectacular marching show by the group Earth, Wind, and Fire. The set included props and magnificent music. Songs that were performed included “Rock That”, “September”, “In The Stone”, and “Fantasy.”

Kaitlynn Macke, senior, said, “Earth, Wind, and Fire was a great performance and it was the first time the band used props.”

The band also participated in solo and ensemble contests. The W.W. Trio, which included seniors Sharon Gardner, Emily Laker, and Sarah Schwier, earned a superior rating. The Cinco de Brasso with Robert Call, Eric Faulkner, Michael Freeland, Nick Johnson, and Landon Raab achieved a superior rating. The Sax Quartet, including Phil Call, Sharon Gardner, Ian Dorrel, and Tyler Roell, also earned a superior rating. Solo superior ratings included Phil Call, Robert Call, Eric Faulkner, Sharon Gardner, Emily Laker, Shelley Mitchell, and Sarah Schwier.

"It was an awesome experience to get a superior rating," said Emily Laker, senior.

Being in this band took dexterity, intelligence, and energy. By practicing everyday both in and out of class, the band contributed their enjoyable talent everyday to students and other community members.

singing hearts your out

Although concert choir only met every other cycle, they proved their talent and dedication every time they sang. Throughout the year they had two concerts, organizational contest, and solo and ensemble contest.

The choir always had a bunch of girls who signed up, but rarely any guys. This year they had five guys who joined.

"The men in the concert choir gave a lot because there were few of us and we were actually able to somewhat balance the choir," said sophomore John Heil.

At organizational contest the choir received a superior rating in sight reading and their performance.

"I was surprised when we got a superior rating because in Group One it's really hard to achieve," said Senior Stephanie Narwold.

his year the Batesville Singers had an excellent year. They performed in Mooresville and New York.

To be a Batesville Singer, you had to be the best and these students were just that. They must go through try outs to even be a part of the group. They practiced constantly and learned a lot of choreography. For that reason, this class got together every cycle. They were always working hard to make their performances outstanding.

"If you really think about it, I actually spent eight years in Batesville Singers since we met every cycle. There was a ton of time and effort put into it but it was a lot of fun and it was definetley worth it," said Elizabeth Rosebrough, senior.

They also had a dinner show this year at the Knights of Columbus to help raise money for their trip to New York City. Their theme for the show was Rockin Down The Highway. They performed a lot of rock n' roll songs and dressed up in leather outfits. It was enjoyed greatly by all those that attended.

Where... Everybody knows your face.

The high school years are often thought of to be the most important years of a person's life. These four years are fun and exciting, but can also be stressful. The student body is what makes a person's high school years memorable. You attend high school with friends that you have had since grade school, but you also meet new friends that have attended other schools.

You and your friends have some great times during the high school years. You come up with crazy and interesting nicknames because of things that have happened. My friends and I have had several nicknames we have created for one another because of the good and bad times we have had together. My friends and I have had many good times and some bad, but we will always have the memories no matter how far we drift apart.

Friends are an important part of your life in high school. Never take advantage of what you have; live your life to the fullest with no regrets because before you know it, it will all be over. Don't wish your life away and wait until the moment that you are a senior because the next thing you know it will all be over. Have fun and give everybody a chance to get to know who you really are and to get to know your name.

"I'm just ready to graduate and get out of here," said Ammie Willoughby, junior.

"I will have more privileges and it'll be my final year of high school," said Sarah Obermeyer, junior.

"When I turn 18 I am going to get a tattoo," said Trisha Gunselman, junior.

"Buying lottery tickets so I can get money for college," said Emily Peters, junior.

WAS THERE A BIG CHANGE FROM BEING AN UNDERCLASSMEN TO UPPERCLASSMEN?

"Being an upperclassmen is really cool because now I get to see the underclassmen where I was," said Casey Kraut, junior.

"I now have more slack off classes and I am closer to the top," said Elaine Rennekamp, junior.

"Yes, but I am still living life to the fullest," said Bryan Hooten, junior.

Freshmen Fun

For years it was a popular tradition to haze the freshmen. This week was more commonly known as "Freshmen initiation week." This year some freshmen willingly were dressed up in some crazy clothes by a few of their senior friends. The freshmen said they had a good time and were upset that it was cut short. However, the freshmen had lots of fun and got to know the seniors a little better.

Where... yesterday's memories are today's treasures

Things change through four years of high school, just like the people change. During our last year as seniors, we probably look back at some of the things we did in our younger days. Mostly, we do not like to bring them up again, but they are just too funny to forget.

Like when we first came as freshman, our seniors initiated many of us. We had to dress up in silly outfits and do humiliating things for a whole week. We did whatever they told us to do because we were scared of what would come of us if we didn't.

Or remember our sophomore year when food fights would break out at least twice a day in the cafeteria? There was the time someone splattered ketchup all over someone else's shirt. There was also that time when an apple core got launched across and hit someone in the head. It was a great hit, until a certain few got thrown out of the cafeteria for a week.

No one can forget our junior year when the infamous reading day started. We threw a fit for the longest time. Who could blame us? However, we also managed to make our last year in reading day more exciting. Korey Weber would usually start us off on a good note with a few chants. A favorite of many was when Emma Beiser saw a snake on the stage. Even though Mr. Ferguson won't admit it, we all knew he was scared.

We have lived and learned through the memories we have made over our four years in high school. Most of all we will never forget the fun times at homecoming, semi, and prom. We have made many new friendships, strong bonds, and memories that will be impossible to forget.

Bottom: Freshmen cheerleaders Ashley Gurnee, Tasha Duerstock, Lauren Flaspohler, & Tiffany Brennan ride on the float during the parade and enjoy the nice weather.

Right: Seniors get crazy and rowdy and celebrate a 12-0 victory against the juniors in the powder puff game. Who's that cute girl on the right? Oh wait, is that Bud Grote?

The Homecoming court was set for Friday, September 12, 2003. The following freshmen nominated for homecoming court included: Angel Ison, Nikki DiBiease, John Bowles, and Dustin Rowland. Sophomores included Rachel Meyer, Krista Bergman, Justin Rowland, and Dan King. Juniors included Cathy Ramsey, Mattie Fraser, Shane Tucker, and Charlie Lang. On court for king and queen were seniors Lisa Feller, Emma Beiser, Michelle Gibson, Amy Maple, Phil Call, Ted Dickman, Alex Davis, and Drew Dieckmann.

As the second quarter buzzer sounded, the nominees walked onto the football field while the announcer, Mr. Charlie Zimmerman, talked about each of the nominees plans for the future. Then, "Dan King and Mattie Fraser" came over the loudspeaker as the winners for prince and princess.

"I had no idea that I would win princess. In fact, I actually doubted I would win, but once I found out I was the winner, I felt like a new woman with a million bucks," said Mattie Fraser, junior.

Next, the anticipation switched to the seniors who were up for king and queen. The crowd also awaited eagerly for this moment. As Lisa Feller and Phil Call were announced the winners, the crowd went wild.

Homecoming court wasn't the only excitement of the night. The previous day, the junior and senior women battled in a powder puff game to get pumped up for the men's football game the next night. The senior women won 12-0 against the juniors with touchdowns by Elizabeth Rosebrough and Claire Macyauski.

"I was really excited about the powder puff game because last year it was rained out, and I really wanted the opportunity to play this year," said Elizabeth Rosebrough, senior.

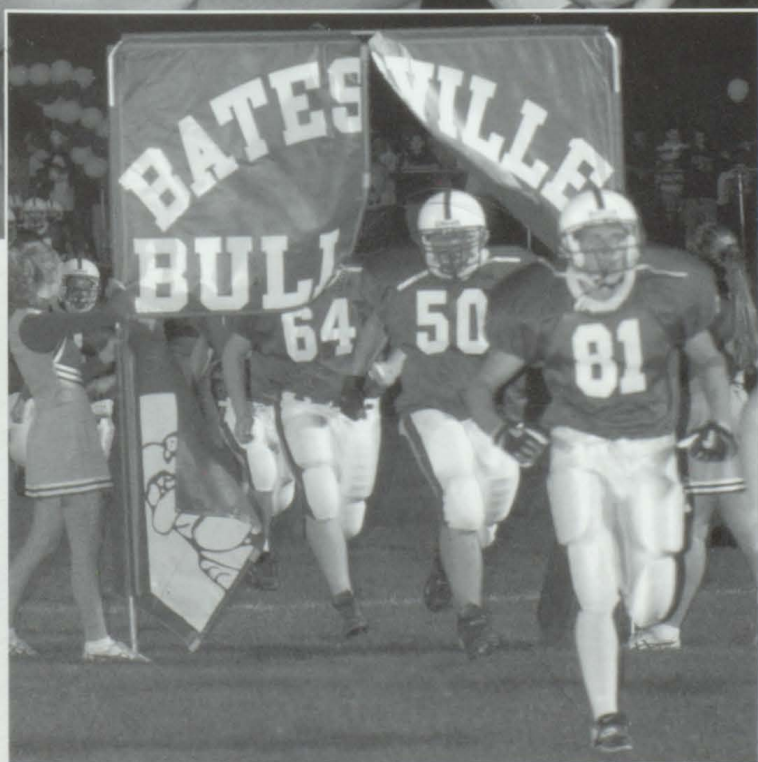

The men's football game against New Palestine proved to excite the crowd. Students were seen with painted faces, blue and white clothing, and bells were rung from the bleachers. The bulldogs played hard, but were unable to defeat the Dragons with a loss of 35-6.

"That game brought tears to my eyes. We all played hard, but we just didn't have it together that night. I know we could have done better and there is always next game," said Alex Davis, senior.

The football players may have lost Homecoming, but they were still proud to be part of Batesville. Homecoming excited much of the student body, and it will continue to be looked forward to for many years to come.

Where... Memories Last Forever

On June 15, 2003, many people lost a great friend, father, and teacher. Mr. Steve Cochran was a well-respected geometry teacher who will always be remembered by his family, students, and staff at BHS. He was teacher here for twenty-one years and his presence remained throughout the hallways at BHS. Because of this, he will never be forgotten.

Mr. Cochran's distinctive way of incorporating his sense of humor into his class time allowed students to enjoy class while gaining knowledge at the same time. His many jokes and stories kept students attentive and eager to learn. Almost everyone who had Mr. Cochran could recall the story about the Gorilla Who Could Putt. Sometimes he would never tell his students he made up half the stories and some would go home believing everything he said. After telling these crazy stories, he could always tie it back to the lesson in geometry.

Besides his interesting narratives, Mr. Cochran had a way of brightening students' day just by passing them in the hallway.

"Mr. Cochran always seemed to have a smile on his face, and when I would see him in the hallway or pass his classroom, he would stop what he was doing and crack a joke about me. I think that is why so many students looked up to him. He made students feel special," said Leslie Marticke, senior.

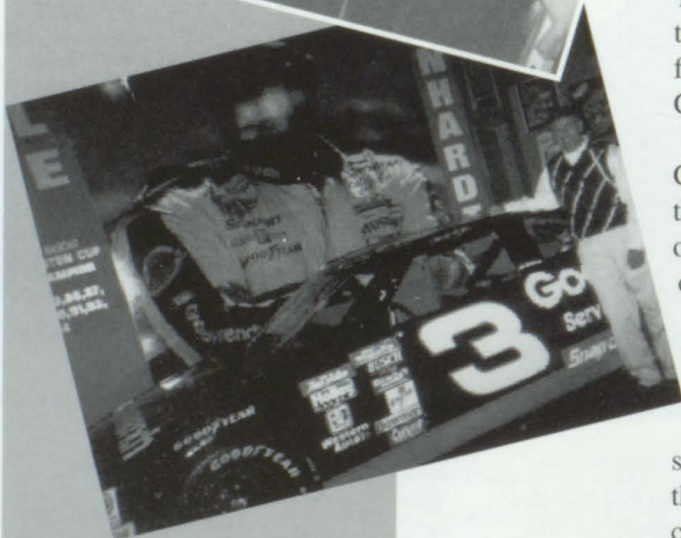

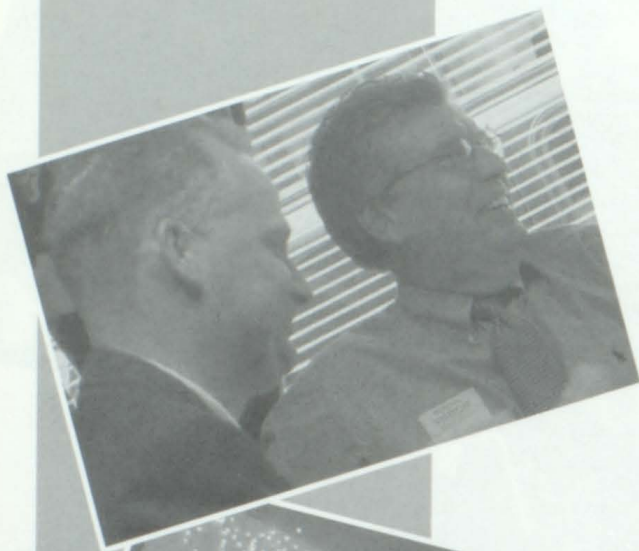

Not only will many relive great memories of Mr. Cochran, but his great accomplishments and hobbies in life also continue to remind the students of him. It is quite known that Mr. Cochran was an avid runner. He participated in many races, and was also an excellent baseball player. Mr. Cochran was also a pitching coach at The University of Indianapolis. After high school, Mr. Cochran went to the minor leagues and signed for the Cincinnati Reds and played for three years. Even after he continued to teach and grow older, Mr. Cochran continued to run on a daily basis.

There are so many memories that students have of Mr. Cochran teaching Driver Education classes too. He was the head of the Drivers Education Department, while watching the parents of some of his students become excellent drivers. Besides teaching the basics of driving, he also shared his stories to those who were in his car.

"Lisa Feller & I had the best time during drivers Ed with him because he made us laugh so much. We would look forward to driving with him because it was so fun. We also joked around with him and made things up about ourselves just to fool him. It was funny to see his reaction when we told him we were kidding because he didn't think anybody could fool him. He also thought we were weird because we would get Hi-C orange drinks at McDonalds instead of getting cokes, like normal people," said Claire Macyauski, senior.

Although Mr. Cochran is no longer with us, he will always be remembered as a generous, wonderful teacher who changed many students outlook on school and life.

"One thing I will always remember about Mr. Cochran is that when I was younger he gave me a cheerleading outfit, and I still have it to this day. I may not be able to fit in it, but I will always keep it in remembrance of him," Kendra Westerfeld, senior.

Top: Mr. Cochran poses with Ted Nizer at the Senior Etiquette Luncheon in 2003.

Where...Everyone Hula's On Down

Hula skirts, coconut bras, palm trees, and flowers were all just a few things people saw at semi. As people walked through the door and received their complimentary lei's, they could tell it would be a fun-filled night. Everyone had their unique dancing techniques, especially Bud Grote, who could be seen dancing provocatively in his boxers.

"I never imagined that I would be on a dance floor in front of hundreds of people with only my boxers on," said Grote, commenting on his aggressive dance moves.

The DJ put everybody in the mood by playing some hip-hop songs such as "Holiday Inn" by Chingy, and "Get Low" by Lil' John. Carlota Dall showed her spirit by getting on the DJ's microphone and starting a cheer for her senior class.

"I just had the urge to get up and cheer for my class, so I decided, why not? So I took the microphone from the DJ and said, 'Let's hear it for 2004!' Everyone seemed to like it so I'm glad I did it," said Dall.

The DJ then changed the tune by playing slower songs like "Crazy" by KC and Jo-Jo for couples and friends to show their affection towards one another.

"I had a lot of fun even when the slow songs came on. I danced with a lot of people, and sometimes just with my friends because it's fun doing stupid stuff like that," said Nancy Oesterling, sophomore.

Semi was not all about the dancing. The student council took the time and effort to make it feel like students were in a tropical setting. As friends walked through the entrance with tiki torches lighting their way, the student council staff, including Miss Hedrick and Mrs. Berkemeier, greeted them. There were more decorations as people made their way into the gym.

"We had palm trees set up around the room and grass skirts lining the tables. There were also a bunch of lights set up to add more flavor to the dance space," said student council member Amy Records, senior.

Most people had a blast at semi and it was definitely a semi to remember for everyone. Hula skirts, coconut bras, palm trees, flowers, and the notorious breathalizing are now all in the past, but will never be forgotten in the future.

The yearbook was always something everyone looked forward to receive every year. Every September the rush of excitement was felt as the yearbooks arrived in the school office. Many people looked at the yearbook and saw all the pictures and stories and never really realized how much hard work went into creating those pages. The yearbook staff worked hard everyday, even in their off cycles, in order to get as much coverage of as many people and events possible. With 610 students in the school, it was a challenge to get every student pictured in the yearbook. Editors put in a lot of time and effort in order to get more people covered in the yearbook. Although putting the yearbook together was hard work, there were many fun times in class that made it all worth it!

Where...The Clock Strikes Twelve

On April 24, parents anxiously waited to greet the students with smiles on their faces. They acted as the paparazzi: snapping pictures and holding video cameras. The event? Prom 2004. Although things were a little different than in past years, students seemed to enjoy themselves.

The main change was that Prom was held in the BHS gym instead of its usual spot at The Knights of Columbus. This seemed to bother some students at first, but as they walked into the gym, their minds completely changed.

"You couldn't even tell it was in the gym because it was decorated so nice with the streamers and the fountain," said Sam Silver, senior.

Another change was the utilization of the AlchoBlow breathalizers. Every student and their guest was breathalized before entering prom. This made sure for a safe environment for everyone.

The night flew by as everyone sang, danced, and laughed to the variety of songs. The girls were dressed in their normal formal dresses while most of the guys went with tuxes. However, there were a few exceptions.

"Zac Broering got my vote for best dressed with his tie-dye shirt and red suspenders," said Emily Jordan, junior.

As the night went on, students waited in anticipation for the court to be announced. While the court nominees filed in, students cheered on their friends. John Moton and Mattie Fraser were announced Prince and Princess of the night, while Adam Tillett and Kate Kaiser were declared King and Queen. Mr. Charlie Schuck had the honor of crowning the royalty. The King and Queen danced to the theme song of the night, "A Moment Like This" by Kelly Clarkson, and soon everybody was dancing again.

"I'm glad that I finally get recognized for all the hard work I've done over the past four years; it's about time people noticed," said Adam Tillett, senior.

As the dancing settled down, people went home and got ready to party again at After Prom. After Prom did not end until three in the morning, but students still seemed wide-awake and excited because many of them were made money and won prizes. Grand-prize winners included seniors Kim Harmeyer, who won a TV, Alex Davis and Kaitlynn Macke, who received a hundred dollars, and Sharon Gardner, who won a trunk full of goodies for college.

Overall, prom was a very pleasant night for most people, and it made a lot of memories, especially for the seniors to carry with them throughout the years.

"I had a great time at my last Prom, and I'm glad I made the most of it. I will miss moments like that," said Kendra Westerfeld, senior.

Where ... Everybody Plays By The Rules

Ask anyone who has graduated from high school what they remembered most about their academic days. Ask them what they would have done differently in high school. Chances are they said something about sports: now they regret not playing more sports, or not trying harder during a specific event. The point was that athletics in high school brought unique experiences that needed to be taken advantage of or else you might have lived to regret it.

To some, sports were everything. Dedicated students spent their entire summers training for their sport that began in the fall. Sports gave students pride but at times it could also cause great anguish. The only reason many students looked forward to the academic year was for the sports. Sports were a relief from everyone's studious days. They could let out stress or any other built up anger and aggression. Being involved with a team was one of the best things a student could do to succeed. Sports forced students to keep up their grades, stay out of trouble, and stay in good health.

Without sports students would have had few outlets to prove their leadership skills and allow their physical abilities to shine. High school sports could be extremely exciting. For many athletes, all four years were spent practicing, conditioning, and training, in order to be at their best when the season rolled around. Many skills were learned that will never be forgotten by those who learned to play by the rules.

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL

Where...Girls Just Wanna Have Fun

With a close team, the Women's Volleyball team managed to pull off a 31-12 record. The seniors played a vital role in the successes of the team. One of the team's strongest hitters, Jill Hortemiller, was recognized in the All-State team for the most blocks. Amy Maple, who was named to the EIAC all conference team, provided the setting for the team. Abby Weberding used her skills to help out with hitting in the front row. Bulldog Award

Winners, Amy Records, who led the team in highest passes, and Megan Hertel, who helped the team with her ability to play all around, rounded out the rest of the seniors.

Injuries hurt the team early in the season. Senior Abby Weberding hurt her tendon and was put on the sidelines for part of the season. The team was forced to come together and work harder to fill her void.

"It was a horrible timing to lose one of our strong seniors. It was sad but I was happy when she came back," said Angela Fullenkamp, sophomore, who filled the vacant spot left by Weberding.

The team came together with their great spirit. Their chants and cheers always made them the loudest ones in the gym. But most importantly, the team had fun whether they won or lost. They always laughed and found ways to have fun no matter what situation they were in. Megan Hertel, senior, stated, "We had a great season full of many memories. We always had a good time, laughing and cheering on the court. I will never forget how much fun we had."

Up against their biggest rivalry, Franklin County, the team fought for a victory in the sectional finals.

After winning a hard fought first game, Franklin County bounced back to win the next three. The season came to a dramatic end for the Bulldogs.

"It was sad to lose to Franklin County because we played really hard and we could've won. It was also sad since it was the seniors last game," said Katherine Rogers, junior.

Coaches Diane Prickel and assistant coach Kateri Paul worked the girls to help make the season successful with many drills and running at practice. While it was a lot of hard work, the team managed to have a lot of fun and made many improvements throughout the season.

WOMEN'S SOCCER

Where...Winning IS Everything

Remember when coach Macyauski said, "Losing isn't fun, but winning sucks?" Or when Abbie Nobbe, junior, received a concussion from getting hit in the head and everyone laughed about it? What about when Mike Robertson turned off the sprinklers because the field was too soggy and got in trouble for it? These are just some of the many memories that were made through the season and that will last a lifetime for these 20 young women.

Believe it or not, all of these girls were a part of the Batesville High School women's soccer team. Yes, they may have been a little wacky, bizarre, and crazy, but they all had one thing in common: their love for soccer and their desire to win games.

"While playing soccer was fun, we had a lot of fun with all the things we did outside of the games. I'll never forget the homecoming parade this year when Leslie dropped her camera, jumped off the truck to pick it up, and my dad had put the gas on the truck at the same time. Leslie rolled on the ground in front of everyone. It was hilarious," said Claire Macyauski, senior.

Throughout the season, the fierce, competitive team ended up with a record of 9 wins, 6 losses, and 3 ties. This was a major improvement compared to their record last year which was 5-11-4. The girls held strong and came together when some of their fellow players were injured or were down on themselves. The women also beat East Central, their biggest rivalry, after many years of attempting to defeat them.

"I think our team did much better this year because we didn't have as many injuries as last year. I also think we really came together as a team and got the job done," said junior

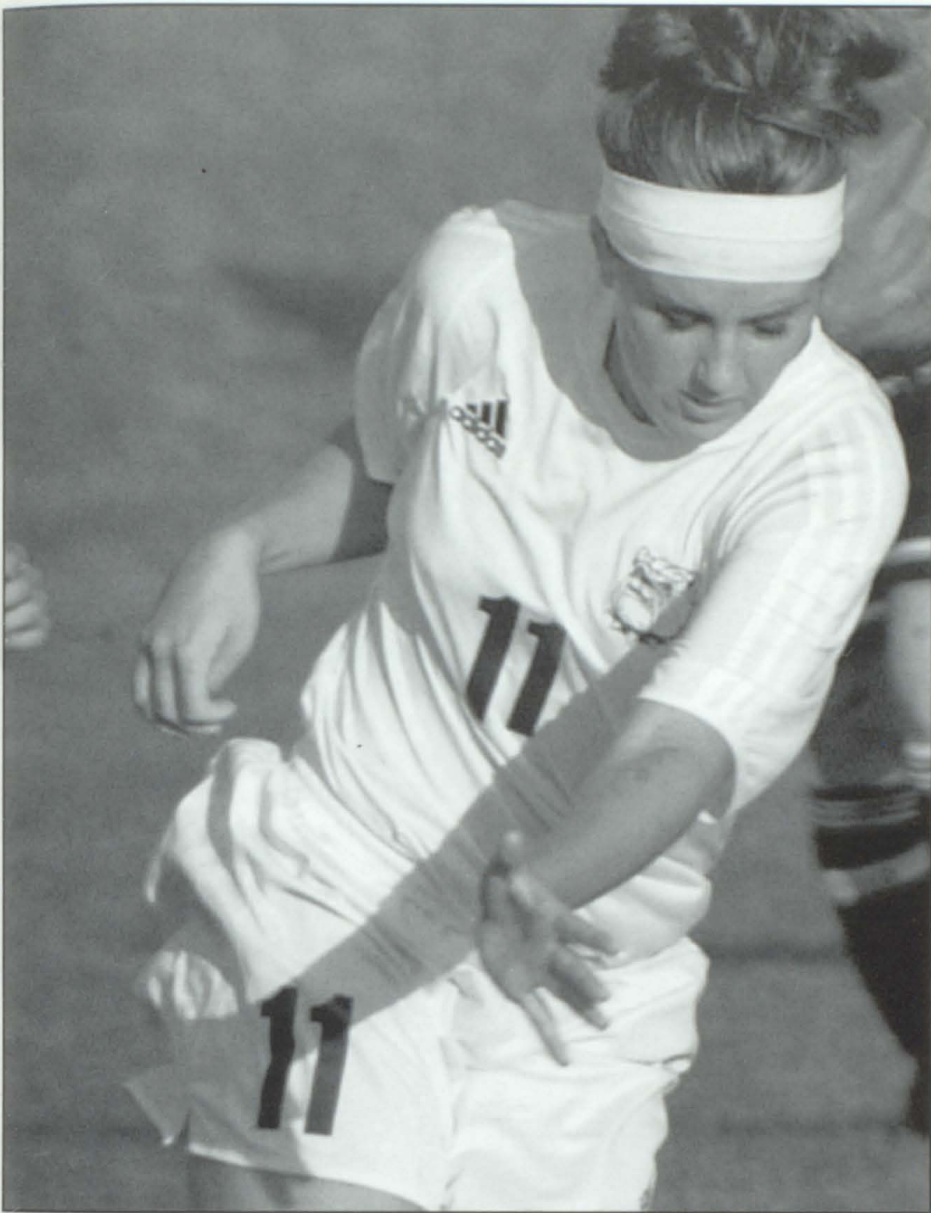

Tracy Erhart, junior, pushes herself up the field.

Tracy Erhart.

The head coach for this wild group of girls was Tim Macyauski. Todd Hartman and Lori Hirt helped out to be assistant coaches.

Claire Macyauski, Elizabeth Rosebrough, Leslie Marticke, and Kelly Weiler were the four seniors that led the team to many of their victories. These girls played soccer together ever since the 4th grade. Their dedication and commitment to the team and to the sport of soccer was greatly appreciated by players, coaches, and even the school. All of the women should be very proud of all the accomplishments they achieved during the season.

MEN'S SOCCER

Where...Everybody Wants To Score

The men's soccer team had a successful season even with a lack of varsity experience. Their final record ended up at 10-4-3. They had many big and successful wins, and went 5-3-2 in conference.

A tough practice schedule, led by coach Mike Robertson and assistant coach Chris Fox, was incorporated to help the men get better and be more prepared for their tough season. It showed when game time rolled around how hard they worked all summer. The team looked stronger, faster, and more knowledgeable of the sport. Team unity also allowed them to improve and return to playing well.

"When we finally learned how to play as a team, and not as individuals, we started to show lots of signs of improvement which definitely helped us win the games that we won," said Ben Cooley, junior.

The men proved themselves when they played in the Batesville Invitational. They went on to defeat some tough teams.

"Winning the invitational was really exciting. Beating New Albany, a 5-A school, is something to be proud of.

As a team we played really well and ended up beating them in a double shoot out. This win lifted us for the rest of the season," said junior, Zach Broering.

As the season continued on, the team continued to play even better together and seemed to be getting closer as a team.

"We just had to get to know how each other played and what they do so that we can have good communication with them because without communication we wouldn't be where we were at the end of the season," said Josh

John Linville, sophomore, kicks the ball upfield to a teammate.

Meyer, sophomore.

The Bulldogs ended up with a win in the Ripley County Tourney. They won 8-1 to be the best team in the county.

"We had a successful season this year as a young team. We all got to know each other pretty well as the season went on. Too bad we couldn't beat East Central. I'm looking forward to the next few years though since our team was pretty young this year. Hopefully by our senior year we should be much improved," said John Linville, sophomore.

The men gave it their all in the sectionals but were unable to pull away with the victory against East Central. The men ended a great season and proved to themselves that they were a worthy soccer team.

FOOTBALL

Where...The Drive To Win Exceeds Expectations

The men's football season was filled with proud moments, a few surprises, and even some broken school records. The Bulldogs 8-5 record, a third straight sectional title, and a trip to the final round of regionals, surprised many who followed the Bulldogs. The men's drive to win proved to be higher than the expectations set by their fans.

Senior standout Alex Davis helped a great deal to achieve the team's successes. Davis's hard work paid off with an outstanding season that broke two school records. With 25 touchdowns this season, and 44 total in his career, Davis broke both previous records held by Mike Hegwood. Davis was also picked as the EIAC offensive MVP for two years in a row.

"The highlight of the season for me was breaking the touchdowns in a season while playing against Heritage Hills. That was sweet," said Davis.

Behind all of the teams successes was Coach Eric Heppner. In his 8th year as coach, Heppner had a lot of pride in his team.

"I was very proud of the way this team improved over the course of the season. In the eight years of coaching, I've never been associated with a team that got better as much as this one. At the beginning of the season, I would have never believed we could win a sectional championship and take the number one team in the state, Heritage Hills, to the wire in the regional. It was disappointing to be so close to playing in the semi-state and lose, but I couldn't have been more proud of the effort of our team when we left the field at Heritage Hills," says Heppner.

Team unity and good sportsmanship was a large part of the season. The Bulldogs could be seen wearing the number of an opposing team member who was in the hospital when they played at his home field. Since football required 2 1/2 hours after school everyday, every Friday night for game time, the men formed a strong bond that would last far after the season was over.

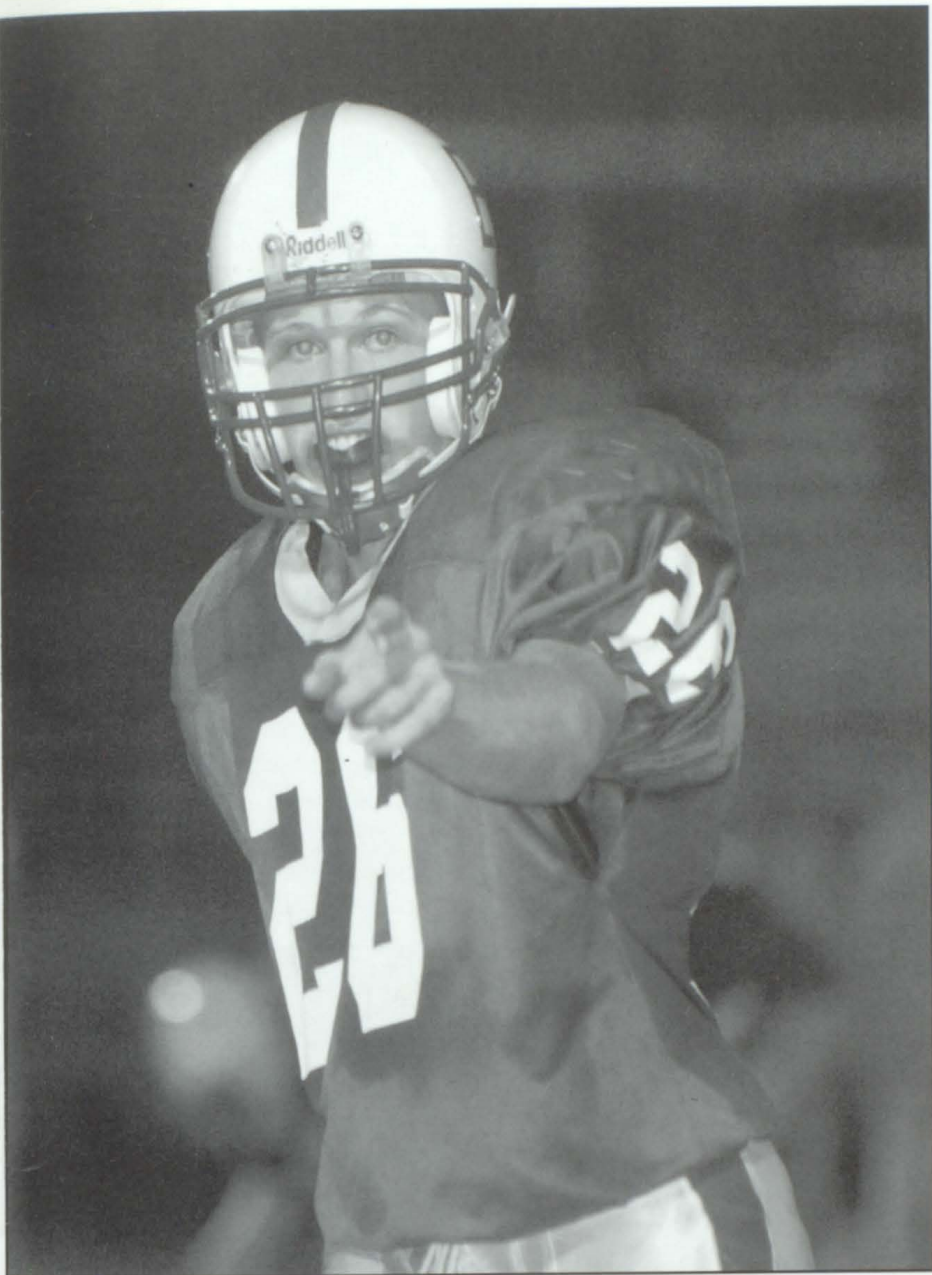

"The season started out rough, but we progressed throughout the season to become a solid team. I wish we would have played as a team earlier in the season," said Drew Dieckman, senior.

The men's football team accomplished more than was expected of them. By working hard and working together, the men created a season that will never be forgotten.

WOMEN'S CROSS COUNTRY

Where...Everybody Runs For Fun

Senior Emily Laker found friendships, competition, and success all in the simple sport of cross country. The girl's cross country team followed Emily's model behavior and grew as a team, making improvements and bonding with each other at the same time. Emily, a four year letter winner in the sport, considered her senior year the most memorable since the beginning of cross country camp during the summer.

"Camp was a different experience than last year. There were better facilities, and the running was much harder," said Emily on camp at Whitewater State Park.

Freshmen members Melissa Knisley, Nicole Hitzges, and Jacquelyn Dahneke made a smooth transition from middle school and were welcomed additions by veteran members of the team.

"When we first came we didn't know much, but it was great running with everyone and meeting new people," said freshman Nicole Hitzges.

Guided by coaches Leo Turchyn and Ronnie McAllister, the team saw a lot of success.

"A winning season, repeat Ripley County Champions, runner-ups at conference, and regional qualifiers; that's a successful season," said Turchyn.

The team members gave a lot of credit to the coaches for their individual and team improvements.

"The coaches actually care that I was feeling well, and they pushed me to do better than I thought I could," said sophomore Elise Vodzak.

Individual success by sophomore Janice Laker also added to the numerous accolades of the girl's cross country team. Janice, the team's MVP, led the team to their 4th place finish at sectionals with a gutsy race.

"The sectional race was very challenging. I was fighting for a top 15 spot. The fact that people might pass me and I not make it or hurt our teams chance of making it to regional made me really fight for each spot," said Janice.

As Emily Laker's four years of hard work drew to a close she remained optimistic about the teams future and her time spent as a cross-country runner.

"The girls definitely have big potential, and Janice will do well. No matter how many times I got frustrated with this sport, I always saw how fun this sport is, and I learned about my teammates' personalities as we grew closer. I am definitely going to miss it," said Emily.

MEN'S CROSS COUNTRY

Where...Everybody Trains Through Pain

Head Coach Leo Turchyn and Coach Ronnie McAllister thought it would be a special year, but they did not plan on the numerous accolades and strides the team made toward becoming a force in Indiana cross-country.

"This was the best cross country team in Batesville's history; PERIOD," said Coach Turchyn, on the team's exceptional season.

With four runners making Batesville's all-time list, including Tyler Roell in 15th, Phil Call in 13th, Jimmy Turchyn in 8th, and Rob Grote in 1st, the men's cross country team accomplished what many past BHS teams have failed to attain. They won the East Central Invite, the Jennings County Invite, the Ripley County Invite, the EIAC title, and advanced to the semi-state.

"It's pretty awesome that it has been 21 years since another team can come close to our domination," said junior Jimmy Turchyn.

Team unity also contributed to the team's success as they did not falter through challenging times and celebrated triumphant victories. "Our success was due to many factors, but overall I would say that it was due to the unity we had in our desire to do our best," said Call.

Team leadership fell to seniors Phil Call and Rob Grote. As veteran members, they passed on their priceless wisdom to younger teammates. "Phil has shown me how to balance school and running and still have fun," said Jimmy.

Rob Grote, team MVP, left his mark on BHS cross-country by finishing 2nd in the state and receiving the Charles F. Maas Mental Attitude Award setting an example for the future runners of BHS. "Bud showed me, and I think the entire community, that something amazing can happen if you're willing to work amazingly hard," said Call.

While the team lost two key seniors, the future was still bright. "We will use this year as an example for years to come. Look for me to be up there soon," said freshman Eric Linville.

Clearly, the hard work paid off and the 2003-2004 men's cross country team has earned the right to be called the best XC team in BHS's history.

MEN'S TENNIS

Where...Hard Work & Dedication Pay Off

The Men Tennis Team worked hard in the off-season and it showed when it came to their record and the goals they set for themselves. The tennis team went 18-3 on the season with losses to Columbus East, Columbus North, and finally Centerville in the final round of regionals.

During the season the team accomplished many of their goals that they set before the season. They were the E.I.A.C champions, and won sectional and went to the final round of regionals.

Throughout their accomplishments, the team developed a great sense of closeness. They were always making jokes about each other and doing anything they could do to amuse themselves. "During the first week everyone was shy, but at the end, we could tell each other anything," stated sophomore, Brittan Siefert.

The squad had been playing ever since fifth grade, so the bonds between the sophomores and the underclassman were strong. With only one lone senior, Mark Lee, next year's team will have a lot of experience coming into the season.

The men's daily practices, led by coach Froman, consisted of hard-work and determination. Everyday the boys would come focused and ready to work harder to prepare themselves. "Even though it got kind of old towards the end, we still kept focused because we knew the teams in our regional bracket would be tough," said Derek Foster.

Many people overlook the sport of tennis. "When it comes to tennis, it's cool for girls to play, but for as far as guys playing tennis, it seems lame," said sophomore, Stephen Cobb. What many students don't know about tennis is that not any average student can play this sport. Along with that, the boy's tennis team holds the record for most sectional and regional wins at Batesville High School.

"I'm very proud to be a part of the tennis legacy that has formed here at Batesville. I've created many great memories all through my tennis years that I will never forget," said Mark Lee, senior.

The men should be very proud of their accomplishments this season. Even though the team was young, they stayed determined and fulfilled many of their goals and aspirations.

WOMEN'S GOLF

Where...Everybody Has A Good Swing

The 2003 Women's Golf season ended with a tremendous record of 42-16. The team members consisted of seniors Lauren Kenley, Claire Fullenkamp, Renee Zeigler, Jana Doyle, junior Janice Merkel, and freshman Maddi Fullenkamp.

"I am glad that I got to be on the girls golf team for four years in a row, it was awesome!" said Lauren Kenley, senior.

The women's record proved all the hard work they put into practices for the season. The girls started practice in August, and practiced everyday after school until 5 o'clock at Hillcrest Country Club. Along with practicing, putting, swinging, and driving the ball, fun, jokes, and good times were all a part of their everyday routine.

Tom Meyer once again took on the task of coaching the girl's golf team. He was often the crack of jokes and he let the women have fun during meets and practices. The women were always joking around with him and each other. They could be seen wearing sweatshirts with nicknames that they created for each other from things they did during the season.

"Tom made everyday fun. He made us work hard, but in the end it all paid off," said Claire Fullenkamp, senior.

All the dedication and hard work from the women and Meyer landed the girls a spot in the regionals. Unfortunately, the girls were not victorious.

"I was disappointed when we didn't walk away with the win; but knowing that the team gave it our all, made me feel better," said Jana Doyle, senior.

The four seniors have played together on this team for four straight years and have created bonds and friendships that have strengthened over each passing year. Since golf takes up so much time and the season lasts for two months, it was inevitable that the women would be sad when the season ended.

"It is going to be really sad when the season is over. These girls are like my sisters," said Kenley. "I was so glad to be on a team with such a great group of girls. I really couldn't have asked for better teammates and I am really going to miss them."

After two months, and for the seniors, four years, the girls really should have something to be proud of. The women created a season filled with many memories and victories.

Women's Basketball

Where... Everybody Sticks Together

The Lady Bulldog Basketball team faced a year of rebuilding and finished with a record of 10-11. Throughout the season the ladies were faced with many obstacles but stuck together and never gave up.

Along with returning coach Miss Connie Dickman, and assistant coach Travis Smith, two returning seniors, Kelly Weiler and Amy Maple, led this year's squad. The team lost five seniors from last year so the ladies had big shoes to fill and lots of responsibilities to take on. Although the team was young, they still strived and worked hard the entire season.

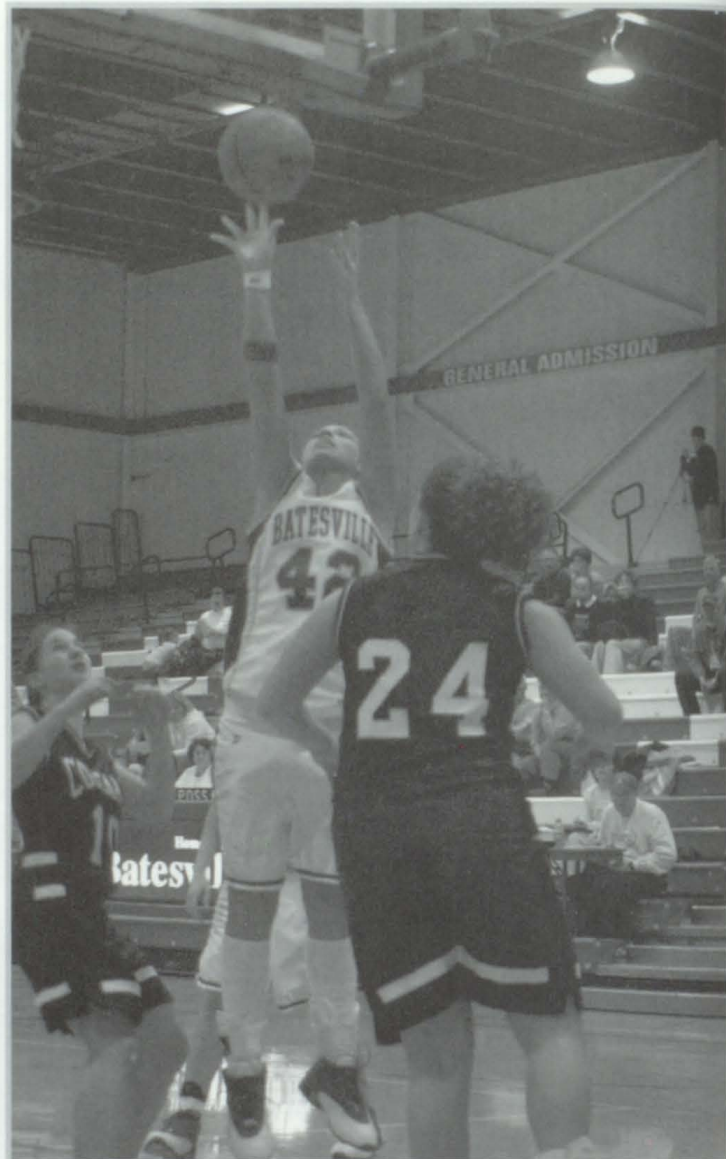

"This season was a pretty good one overall, and I'm glad I got to play with the people I did," said Kelly Weiler, senior.

Many of the players worked hard during the off-season and attended open gyms during the summer, helped with team camps, and played in the Decatur County League. These women put in a lot of their own free time to practice in order to better themselves, and overall, to better their team.

Towards the end of the season, the ladies overcame many tough times. Sophomore Angela Fullenkamp received a case of whiplash late in the season during the game against Lawrenceburg. Two of the players faced deaths in their families which left them unable to play in some games. Because of this and inexperience, the ladies lost to the Rushville Lady Lions in the first round of sectionals.

Overall the Lady Bulldogs had a great season. While Kelly and Amy will be missed next year, the varsity players looked forward to taking on their new roles and responsibilities.

Men's

Where...Everybody Plays for Pride

Just three years ago Batesville basketball fans found themselves sitting in Conseco Fieldhouse, cheering on the men's fight for their possible first state championship. Three years later, the team struggled to even make it that close to the championship. Inexperienced players, lack of ability, and many struggles forced the Bulldogs to watch the state championship from the sidelines this year.

The men's basketball team had many ups and downs during the season. The beginning of the season proved to be a struggle for the team. Since the scrimmage against Triton-Central was canceled, it took a couple of games to get their butterflies to go away. The inexperienced team had only two seniors returning, Mark Lee and Aaron Borgman.

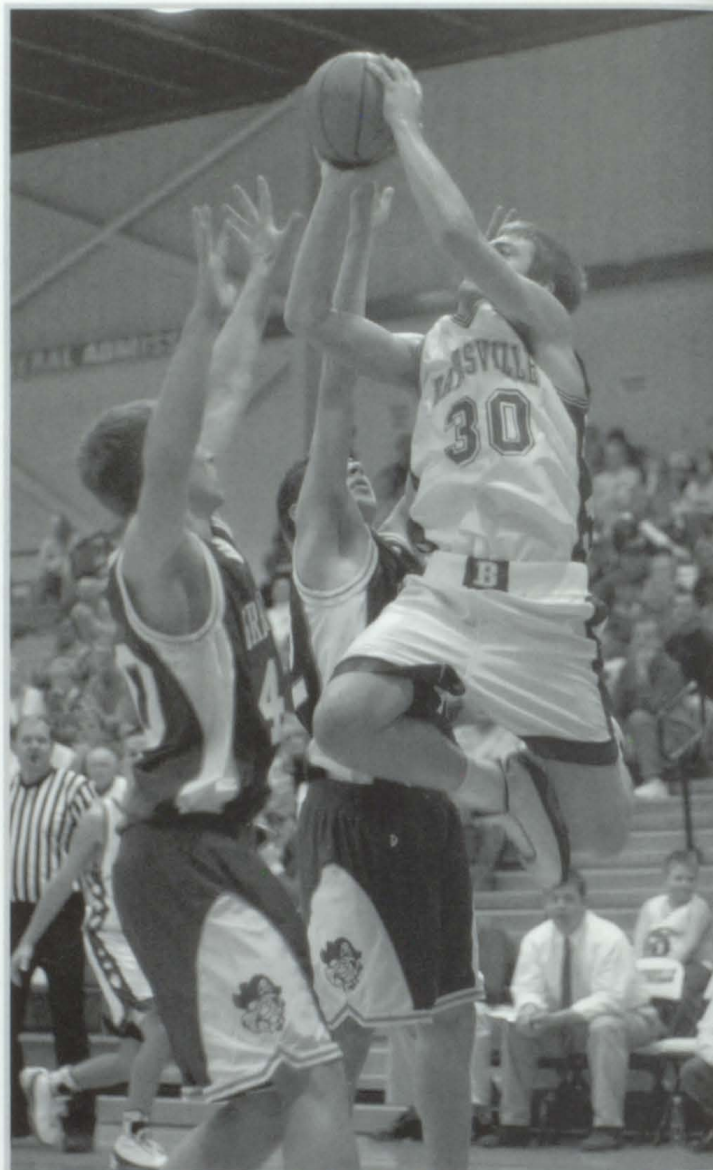

"It was tough coming into the season knowing that I would have to take a huge responsibility for being the big man on the team. It took me a few games to adjust to the way of playing basketball but I finally got it down," said Cullin Enzinger, junior.

Even though the team went through a five game losing streak, head coach Melvin Siefert helped to keep his team looking in the most positive way possible.

"Mr. Siefert kept my confidence up and he kept me motivated to keep fighting for a win," said Korey Padgett, sophomore.

All the hard work and dedication put into the season may not have shown in their record, but it showed on the court. These men worked very hard in the off season to improve their game, and they will always have the personal satisfaction of knowing that they gave it their all.

Wrestling

Where...Spandex Rule

At the beginning of the year the wrestling team looked weary, and was filled with unexperienced wrestlers. The freshmen class was large and had many first-time wrestlers. Although the majority of the team were freshmen, there were still a solid few wrestlers in the sophomore, junior, and senior class. The team was led by seniors Korey Weber and Brett Weigel.

The year began with little excitement and only a few wrestlers started strong: sophomore Abe Sitterding and junior Tony Armogida. As the state tournament quickly came around the corner, only four stood standing after sectionals. One of the biggest surprise was freshman Hi Huynh. Huynh won conference, and was also succesful at sectionals a week later.

These four wrestlers went to regionals with high hopes. Sitterding was knocked out, but Weigel, Armogida, and Huynh, placed to move on to Semi-State. Huynh, who won regionals, needed to win only one match to move onto the state finals, as Weigel and Armogida needed to win two. It turned out to be a short weekend as Armogida and Huynh lost their first matches. Weigel won his first and ended up losing his second match.

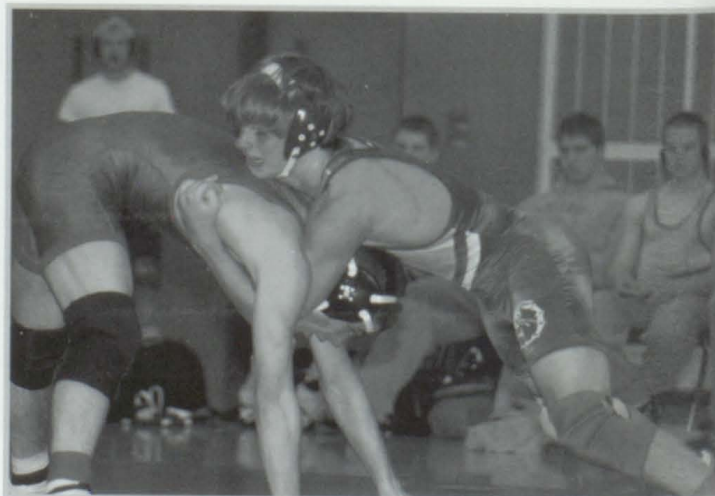

It was a very successful season considering that the last time three wrestlers went to semi-state was in 2000. The team will have a lot of returning varsity wrestlers for the upcoming season. They should be strong in their performance and improve on their accomplishments from this year.

Cheerleading

Where... It's All About Spirit Fingers

The cheerleaders started off this season on a fresh new start. They started out by welcoming two new coaches to the squad, Mrs. Rachel Berkemeier and Jama Linkel. The coaches helped the team create new cheers and stunts and inspired the girls to do the best they could.

The season started off during the summer at a camp in Miami, Ohio. The cheerleaders attended this camp for four days and worked on creating new stunts and perfecting some of their cheers. They competed against other squads by cheering and doing stunts. Along with learning, performing, and competing, the girls had a lot of fun being around each other, hanging out, and staying in the dorm rooms. Our Lady Bulldog Cheerleaders won the spirit banana and were also recognized as most spirited. The spirit banana was a big accomplishment because everyone competes for it.

"We had a lot of fun working together as a team and getting to know all the incoming freshmen at camp. It was especially awesome when we won the spirit award," said sophomore Megan Wilder.

The girls started their season off at the football games and then worked all the way through into the basketball season. The girls stunted using senior, Amy Records and junior, Cathy Ramsy as their flyers. Their captain, Abby Siefert led the team in cheers and showed the most enthusiasm. Along with leading cheers at football and basketball games, the cheerleaders also led numerous pep sessions throughout the year.

"The season was a lot of fun because we all got along great. It's sad to think that it's my last year as a BHS cheerleader" said senior Kristin Riehle.

Where... The Wheels On the Bus Go Round and Round

How does a swim team swim without a pool? Head coach T.J. Greene probably wondered the same thing before coaching a swim program with no pool, but in his second year as coach, the men's swim team made great strides with little to work with.

"Batesville has a truly unique swim program. Without a pool, we are constantly challenged to make the most of our time in and out of the water. Since Milan's pool is only available a few days each week, dry land practices became an integral part of our training," said Greene.

The swim team operated much differently than traditional sports teams who had quick access to their playing fields, but they found ways to make long bus rides part of becoming a close group of teammates. With an hour to travel to practice each day, boredom led toward many entertaining antics.

"The most mischievous times were when it was just the boys on the bus. The funky smells, earthquakes, and loud screaming made things a lot more fun," said junior co-captain Nick Johnson.

The team's dedication at practice paid off with the team's first winning record. With such a young team and building plans for a local pool in place, the future for BHS swimming was bright. And even though most of the winter was spent with the wheels on the bus going round and round, this team was paving the way toward a perennial powerhouse-swimming program.

Women's Swimming

Where...Seconds Count

Hours, minutes, seconds, and even tenths made all the difference for the women's swim team. Without their own pool to practice in, the team had to travel an hour each day to and from Milan's pool, making practice time very valuable. While most teams practiced one hour in the morning and two hours after school, BHS swimmers had only an hour each day to make personal improvements.

"Every chance we have to get in the water when we don't have a pool is important. We really stress the importance of team unity and making the most of the time we had in the water," said head coach T. J. Greene.

With numbers down slightly from last year, individual improvement became the key focus for the women's swim team. The hard work during limited practice time resulted in improvements for all swimmers. These improvements, whether in minutes, seconds, or tenths, all revealed the determination of each swimmer to push their limits.

"It always felt good when I made an improvement, and I always wanted to see my teammates improve as well. We encouraged each other and always had a good time," said Kate Kirchoff, freshman.

Debbi Moll, junior, broke two school records in both the 200 freestyle and 500 freestyle while teammate Laura Hountz broke the school record in the 100 breaststroke in their pursuits of personal improvements.

"A lot of people made really good improvements. Debbie Moll and Laura Hountz both had a spectacular year. They were both dedicated in practice, and it showed in their ability to break records," said Greene.

The BHS swimmers were in the process of building a tradition of excellence for the years to come, and they proved that seconds really do count.

Men's Track

Where... Everybody Makes History

The men's track team appeared to outlast opponents by massive margins, but for some, the opponents they were racing could not be observed from the stands. From a fan's perspective, the peculiarity of witnessing a runner with a half of a lap lead grimacing with pain with his teammates screaming wildly for him to run faster may have arisen some rational questions. Are they crazy? Doesn't he know he will win even if he stopped to flirt with the star-struck girls in awe of his prowess? Who is he racing? In essence, those runners were not crazy, and besides an occasional wink to the sidelined chicas, the BHS runners kept their eyes on the prize; making history.

"The distance squad was a very special group. After the first lap, there was always a pair of Batesville runners leading the pack," said Head Coach Leo Turchyn.

The distance runners who rewrote the record books were juniors Jim Turchyn, Robert Call, and Tyler Roell and seniors Phil Call and Rob Grote. After a dedicated winter of training, Jim Turchyn found himself chasing long-standing meet records and quickly elevating to a potential state contender.

"It's awesome how we can go to meets and expect to dominate the distance events. Batesville distance runners have set a precedent for future runners to pursue," said Jim Turchyn.

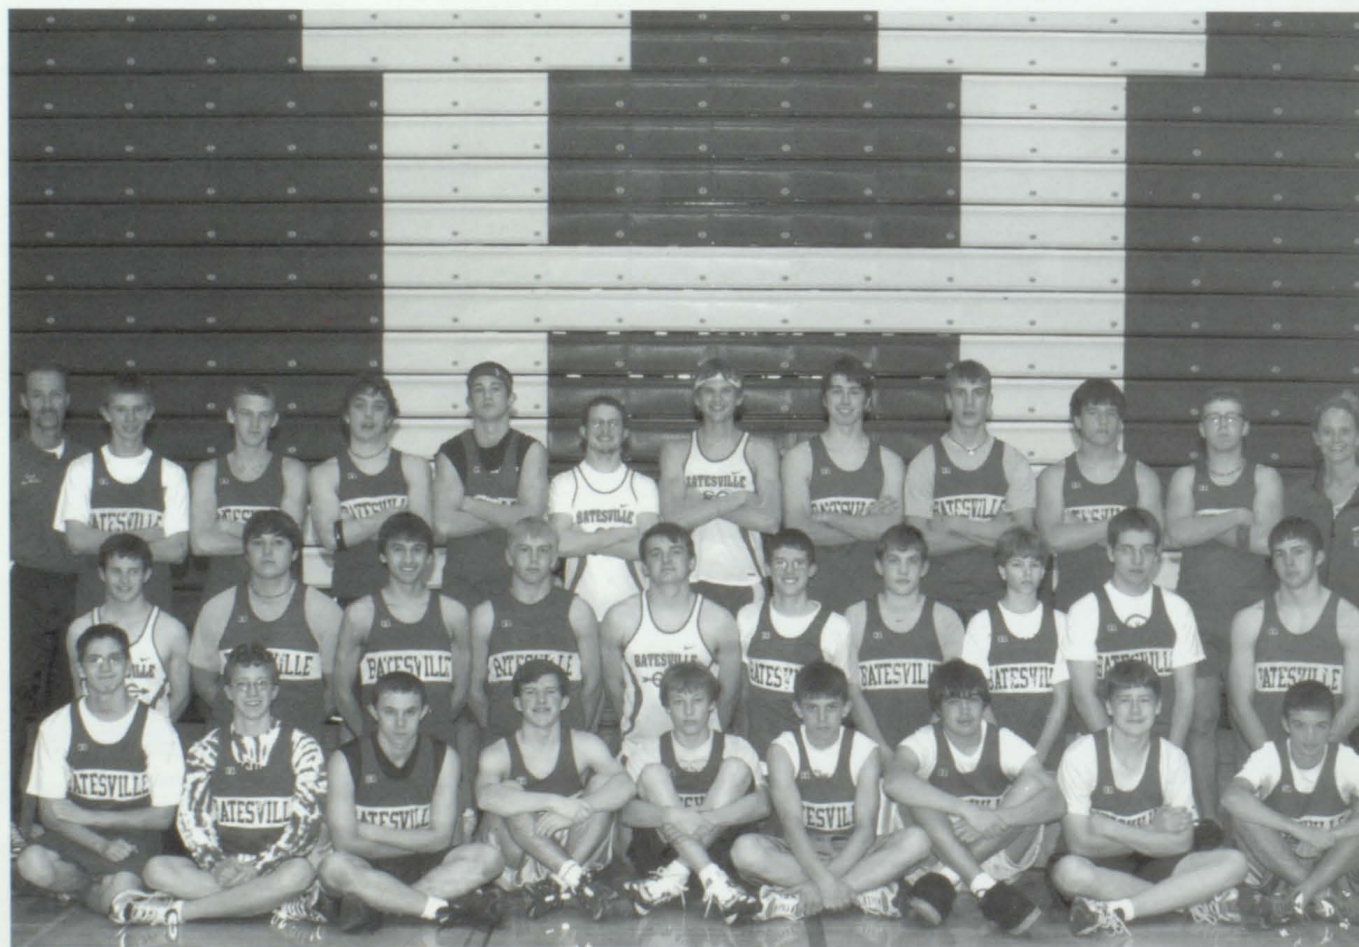

Some chased personal bests and added vital points adding to a successful team effort.

"There may not be an 'I' in 'TEAM,' but there is a me, and I must do my part to help the team," said senior Korey Weber.

In years to come, a new breed of runners may chase history once again; a history established by runners who grazed the track in the historical season of 2004.

Women's Track

Where... Everybody Crosses the Finish Line

The ladies track team had a rather difficult season due to the lack of team members. However, that did not stop each individual athlete from shining with pride for their dedication towards the team. They had the determination and motivation to strive towards success and do their personal best.

"All I asked for was for them to do their best and nothing else," said Coach Records.

The squad consisted of sixteen bright young women: two seniors, three juniors, and eleven underclassmen. Because of the team's inexperience, they met and had to overcome many obstacles.

"It was hard to accomplish success with such a young team, but I believe that after our first few meets, we began to practice harder and eventually came together as a team, and our improvement was very obvious," said Dana Smith, junior.

In the beginning of the season, the team faced multiple struggles, which only made them stronger. Lack of preparation and inexperience were two main reasons for the team's disheartening defeats. As the season continued, many improvements were made. As individuals improved, so did the team. The overall scores increased, and soon the team reached the peak of their season by placing second at the County Invitational.

The women's track team managed to achieve Coach Record's goal of giving it their all. They beat the odds by finishing the season with a big win, and a much more united and strengthened team.

"As I always say, what doesn't kill you only makes you stronger," added Smith.

Women's Tennis

Where...Everybody Makes A Racket

With such rainy and cold weather, the girl's tennis team got off to a slow start. Without excluding the switch of coaches after a week of practice. Mark Fosbinder started out coaching, then he realized he was not cut out for the job. Jack Froman then took over. The team started out conditioning until the weather got appropriate for outdoor practicing. Much of the practice was spent in the Middle School gymnasium during cold and rainy weather.

Most practices were spent doing drills, such as: volleying and serving. Much of practice was also spent transitioning and working together as a team with doubles. Coach Froman managed to pass out many handouts to help improve the team's game. A few movies were also passed out to help a few players mentally. Assistant coach, Olivia Pedro, worked with the girls during practice also. She conditioned the girls by working with them at the net mostly. "Coach Pedro really helped me improve volleys and helped me with my footwork," says senior, Amy Maple. The season started off slow with a few losses, then picked up later on in the season. The girls lost conference this year after many rain delays. Amy Maple, who played number 2 singles was the only one, out of the whole team that won. The Delta Invitational was cancelled, but many other matches were gained to make up for it. The season was very successful and the team managed to have a great record. "I will never forget my senior year and I will really miss everyone next year but I look forward to college," states senior, Jill Hortemiller. Jill Hortemiller managed to play really well at number 1 singles. Amy Maple also played singles at number 2.

"I'll always remember the time Nikki Dibease got her arm stuck in the ball basket," said Krista Bergman, sophomore.

Men's Golf

Where... Everybody Goes For The Long Drive

The boy's golf team had the privilege of playing at one of the finest golf courses in the area, Hillcrest Country Club. One advantage of playing at Hillcrest was that it prepared them for competition with the tough course. The team's main goal this year was to improve on their skills they gained last year.

Derek Laker, freshman, said, "My goal for this season was to shoot under 50."

Unfortunately, the men started out rough. The team was up against very competitive competition entering the season.

"I think Richmond and Brownstown Central were the hardest. Brownstown has the #1 golf player in the state on their team," said freshman Kris Ahern.

Another downside to the season was that the boys only had four home meets. The other fourteen meets were all away. However, all this couldn't keep the boys' spirits down. Ryan Koch, Michael Rauscher, & E.J. Koors led the team as the only seniors. Although the season wasn't as successful as they would have liked it to be, the men didn't let them bring that down and still found time to goof off and have fun.

"Ryan and I had a lot of fun, especially during practices. One practice we were hungry so on the second hole we decided to order a pizza from Classic Pizza. On the fifth hole we left to go meet the delivery man and then we ate our pizza. Coach wasn't too mad at us because we gave him two pieces if it," said E.J. Koors, senior.

The golf team had it rough; eating pizza, playing golf, and being with friends must have really been a tough year.

"The best part of the season was making my first birdie in a match," said Kris Ahern, freshman.

"Being a senior this year made the season much more worthwhile," said Ryan Koch, senior.

Left: "My favorite part of my senior season was when I banked the ball off a tree and into the hole from 140 yards away," said E.J. Koors, senior.

"I really liked how our team came together throughout the season," said Brad Roell, sophomore.

"My favorite part of this golf season was our team and how much fun we all had together," said Michael Rauscher, senior.

Women's Softball

Where... It Takes Everything You've Got

Although the Lady Bulldog Softball team lost six of their starting players, they had a wonderful season. The ladies started their season early by practicing indoors during the winter months. Many players stepped up this year trying to guide the new freshmen into the higher paced games that they were used to.

The season started out well with the team winning their first two games of the season but during the third game their starting pitcher, Ashley Butt, had a mean occurrence with a Madison player. Butt defended the plate after a wild pitch and the Madison player slid into her glove, causing a cracked bone in the top of her hand. Butt finished the game and took the win. The team faced Greensburg later that week. Angela Meyer and Cara Hartman had to step up and play the pitching position, a position they were not too familiar with.

Coach Dan Walter said, "The girls have come a long way since we have first started. The girls focus hard and it has really paid off."

Coach Walter enjoyed helping individuals with both their strengths and weaknesses. He was very pleased with their overall performances throughout the season. The team had their ups and downs but stuck together through even the roughest times.

The girls were also spoiled by Coach Walter's many meals of doughnuts and pizza.

"At all the morning practices Mr. Walter would buy us doughnuts. He'd also buy us pizza a lot too when we watched videos of the game," said Amy Records, senior.

"Mr. Walter was an awesome coach, definitely the best I've ever had," said Ashley Butt, sophomore.

"Softball was a little different than most years, because we had such a young team, but I still had a lot of fun, and am looking forward to next year," said Amber Fledderman, junior.

"We had a lot of freshmen this year, but big senior Amy Records showed us the way!" said Kendall Summers, sophomore.

"This year was a pretty good season for the most part. Amber and I really had a good time!" said Angela Meyer, junior.

Above: "It was really cool to be the only senior. It was a great opportunity to show the underclassmen my outstanding softball skills," said Amy Records, senior.

Left: "I started off the season not too good because I broke my hand the second game, but we all pulled together and recovered, and it has been a great time!" said Ashley Butt, sophomore.

The starting infield, including players Kesia Enzinger, freshman, Angela Meyer, junior, and Amber Fledderman, junior, huddle up together for some last minute game strategies.

Men's Baseball

Where... Everybody Aims For the Fences

Due to the rough weather conditions, the baseball team got off to a rough start. After the resignation of former head coach John Rigney, the men had to learn a new system. The men started conditioning a couple months before their season even began. Due to rain, the men didn't have many opportunities to have good practices. When it rained, they were forced to practice inside.

Due to a poor hitting slump, the Bulldogs were forced to bring two junior varsity players up. The two players Medhi Alavi, freshman and Matthew Baum, sophomore helped the men bring a few more hits to the games.

"Matt & Medhi's confidence to play on the varsity team helped to boost our team's confidence and helped us to be a better team," said Justin Bessler, senior.

One major injury came through midseason from Matt Riechers, senior. Riechers and senior Alex Davis were both running after a fly ball. Because of a lack of communication, the two collided. Riechers caught the ball, threw it into infield and then collapsed. He was rushed to the hospital and found out he lacerated his spleen and bruised his kidney. He was put on bed rest for three days. Davis only sustained minimal injuries, with the wind being knocked out of him.

Although the Bulldogs didn't have the season they expected to have, they still continued to take big strides and get back to the top where they were two years ago at state. Each day the Bulldogs came together and tried to accomplish new obstacles that would make them a better team.

"My favorite part about baseball is the loose attitude that everybody has," said Matt Riechers, senior.

"My favorite part about baseball is hanging out and having fun with my friends," said Travis Ryker, senior.

"My favorite part about baseball definitely had to be the bus rides and our talks on them," said William Baum, senior.

"My favorite part about baseball were the road trips," said Adam Ziegler, senior.

Left: Derric Dudley & Ryan Messerschmidt, seniors, enjoy their last day of high school together by having a cookout and reminiscing about all the memories they've created throughout their four years of high school.

Wow! I can't even put into words how I feel as I write this on the last day of school. This is the day I looked forward to for my whole life, my day of freedom! I'm so happy and excited to move on and experience new events, and a new life, but I'm sad to leave my friends and classmates behind. Although these four years of high school are now in the past, the memories and friends we've created will be in our hearts forever.

To my fellow classmates: Never forget who you are. Be yourself and you'll find out people like you better that way. Live it up and take advantage of every opportunity given to you. Chase your dreams and never give up until you've obtained them. Treasure your memories forever. But most importantly never forget this place,
